Introductory Notes

James Negus

James Negus worked tirelessly throughout much of his life to record philatelic matters of interest to him and to share it with the wider philatelic community. He was a most methodical person and the work before you now is the result of his researches into what he termed "British Souvenir Mail".

The original data was stored within electronic databases that he had compiled and when Jim decided to fully withdraw from the hobby of philately towards the end of his life, he supplied Glenn with a computer disk containing his research.

None of the material that is contained in the 464 pages has been edited by either correction, deletion or addition and is presented exactly in the order supplied. The only amendment made is to the physical layout to make it more visually appropriate for the A5 page format that was chosen for this publication.

It will be noted that Jim includes material from The Philatelic Congress of Great Britain (PCGB) and that a conscious decision had been made by Glenn and Graham not to document these annual events. The PCGB data contained in this volume will therefore be a most useful source of information for those who collect the souvenirs, as will his listings of postcards, postal stationery, special handstamps and souvenir covers from all manner of postal and philatelic events.

Having completed this philatelic publication, we have disposed of all the material used during its preparation. In these circumstances we are not soliciting correspondence and will not be in a position to reply to enquiries about anything in this compilation of James Negus's work.

Aspects of Collecting

Opening Comments

Souvenir items are of very great diversity, extending far beyond simple labels and souvenir sheets. To bring some coherence into this large field it seemed useful to have a record of everything produced for a given event, leaving the collector to make his own choice of how he will then narrow it to manageable proportions as he wishes. To this end I attempted, while collecting souvenir material, to compile a catalogue of everything I had traced, classifying it and numbering the items. The results are set out in eight sections headed "British Souvenir Mail".

Limited solely to Great Britain, the principle adopted was that if the purpose of an occasion was philatelic, its souvenirs are decidedly so and merit listing. This therefore excludes such general events as the Wembley Exhibition 1924-25 or the Festival of Britain 1951, which were not organised to promote philately. Items from philatelic events in postally independent Channel Islands and Isle of Man are included.

Philatelists speak of their collecting interest as "exhibitions", a readily understood shorthand, and philatelic exhibitions are naturally a prime source of souvenir material. But many events take place in the world of stamps where no formal exhibition is mounted as such, yet some memento is produced to mark the occasion. As no one appears to have embarked systematically on keeping track of the material, new finds are always to be expected, adding to the pleasure of souvenir collecting.

Some listed items worth extra mention are of the Postal History Society holding a number of its annual Conferences abroad and the fondness of the active collectors of Lundy locals in issuing souvenirs. The Polish community in Britain and their philatelic societies have also staged numerous exhibitions in postwar days, notable for their attention to souvenir production.

The theme of philately is taken to include events and individuals celebrated in postal history, such as Chalmers, Witherings, Archer and especially the ever-popular Rowland Hill. Present-day designers and printers of postage stamps are occasionally recognised with special postmarks, worthy of inclusion. Philatelic magazines as far back as the 1920s have been active in sponsoring various cards, sheets and postmarks.

All kinds of events where mail is specially transported by unusual means (other than mailcoaches) have been considered as “philatelic”, too. These have featured such things as mail on horseback, by parachute, by submarine, and so on: but for philately they would not be produced at all, nor would such amateur efforts as a cycle post honouring a Society Jubilee. However, the whole large group of Christmas charity posts involving local deliveries by Scouts, etc., are omitted (they have been well documented elsewhere by Annand and Holman).

Attitudes to Souvenir Collecting

Souvenir material is not particularly popular among ordinary collectors, other than some of those already interested in Cinderellas. The items commonly strike people as rather artificial and scarcely worth studying in any detail. Perhaps the most collected part of the field remains the philatelic exhibitions and annual Congress up to 1950, sought after by enthusiasts and where prices are quite high. The major celebration of the Penny Postage Jubilee in 1890 – the start of British souvenirs – produced an abundance of items: they were highly popular at the time and this is still the case. Now antiques, these are the stars of a “golden age”, with even non-Cinderella collectors well disposed towards them.

The attraction of early souvenirs stemmed from their being infrequently issued and then (with some few exceptions) in modest quantities measured in hundreds rather than thousands. Passage of time since those far-off days has ensured the scarcity which fuels demand from collectors. In addition, many of the items were in themselves beautiful examples of printing techniques or (like labels from Congress and the pre-war exhibitions) imaginatively designed. Some of this is broadly paralleled in the similar collecting fields of (picture) postcards and poster stamps, both of which look back with fondness on a “golden age” and have less of a following for “moderns”.

What has followed the “golden age”, say from about 1950, determined stamp collectors’ attitudes by and large. The first of the ten-yearly International Exhibitions in Britain, held that year, set the seal of respectability on the souvenir sheet, considered then a radical, but welcome, innovation. This situation began its slow process of change when an annual Stampex was inaugurated in 1953. Souvenirs of various sorts accompanied the exhibition, culminating also in a souvenir sheet and several elaborations. Initial enthusiasm from ordinary collectors waned as the novelty of Stampex sheets wore off and the ritual of addressing covers to themselves for the special postmarks became tedious. They began to wonder what was the point as all the souvenirs were so common they were never going to become valuable.

By the 1950s philatelic societies were well recovered from the wartime interruption, new ones were being formed and specialist societies were multiplying. Local exhibitions and specialist meetings were more frequent, with commemoration by way of a souvenir considered important. New County federations were springing up, holding regular Conventions and Stamp Days, where souvenir material could be a useful source of revenue, as was the case with the small local societies. With all this activity, however, prior publicity and follow-up reporting was often patchy. The period 1945-59 is particularly suitable for research into what philatelic events took place and whether or not any kind of souvenir material was issued. The new finds, alluded to above, are likely to occur during those years.

As in so many things, the 1960s wrought changes even in such a minor area as philatelic souvenirs. Printing techniques began modernising in earnest and economics spelled the virtual end of things like the elaborate engraved label. Security printers themselves became more active in promoting themselves and soon saw an ideal vehicle in the stamp exhibition. Producers other than amateur philatelists began sensing commercial possibilities and the special postmark really took off as a commemorative item. The Post Office’s attitude to philately underwent a sea-change: hitherto dismissed as an irrelevant nuisance, the collector was now actively courted. A new regular national exhibition opened its doors in 1966, the BPE (British Philatelic Exhibition), settling soon into an event to add to the now familiar Stampex. Set up originally to be non-trade, this was quickly found to be non-practicable and was abandoned in favour of a more-or-less autumn version of spring’s Stampex. Also, wary of souvenirs at first it had, by 1971, begun issuing some of the most satisfactory souvenir sheets of all, well worth acquiring for their high philatelic content by collectors disdainful of such productions in the past. A third fixture in the philatelic year came on the scene in 1972 with Showpex, inevitably adding (though modestly) its own souvenir sheets.

The quantity and variety of souvenirs, the mass-produced standards of many, mark the turning point. Productions from about 1960 are far less collected or studied even among the specialists. Just as with postage stamps, an era of over-production now began to gather pace and popularity waned accordingly. The trend accelerated markedly throughout the 1970s and 1980s. In my collecting days I thought output had reached its peak with the Stamp World International of 1990, which produced the biggest number of items for a single event in the whole of my catalogue listing. With even souvenirs from spring and autumn Stampexes and the Philatelic Congress tailing off and expiring by then, I imagined the 1990 exhibition heralded a finale. Certainly things became relatively quiet for a few years, but two new sources halted the decline. Stanley Gibbons was a prime mover in setting up a new exhibition at Wembley, Stamp 95, bringing varied souvenirs and staged regularly; meanwhile the Association of Friends of the National Postal Museum became more committed to regular commemoration of their many activities through souvenir cards, covers, postmarks and cachets. Philatelic souvenirs were clearly not defunct.

Boundary Problems

With such an abundance of collectable items stretching from 1890 to 2000 I had to make up my mind just what constituted a philatelic event. I thought originally that there was a simple criterion: were the organisers amateur or official – in other words pure collectors rather than the Post Office? I soon found this crude division unworkable and undesirable. The two classes of people overlap and the distinction is too arbitrary. Take a simple example, the hundreds of special postmarks produced for philatelic exhibitions. These may well have been thought up and paid for by amateurs, like a local stamp society, to commemorate their event; but it needs the officials, the Post Office, before the idea becomes reality. The finished handstamp, often from vague and impractical amateur designs; the manufacture and use of the handstamp; the transport and delivery of all the covers posted on or for exhibition day – without the Post Office no souvenir item of this sort would see the light of day. Then again, in 1987-91, it was Royal Mail itself that issued Exhibition Cards for no other purpose than to receive exhibition cachets, so were these to be ignored on that account?

Souvenir collecting is essentially thematic. Anyone who has studied the decades of effort spent by thematic collectors in trying to lay down precise regulations for competitive exhibiting will know how difficult a task it is. The body of rules painfully evolved is now so complicated as to prompt the thought: is all this hair-splitting really necessary? Best to be broadly consistent, yes; but why not simply collect the items that appeal to you personally? That became my own watchword and I included in my thematic of "philatelic exhibitions and events" many things I found relevant to philately and postal history, sometimes as a matter of taste. It also reflected the way certain parts of the field became more attractive than others as the collection grew.

However, I never tried to list the abundance of printed ephemera associated with exhibitions: programmes, catalogues, magazines, reports, pamphlets, yearbooks, prospectuses, Palmares, entrance tickets and invitation cards. The subject is so big it would clearly need separate treatment. Most menus of dinners and award ceremonies are likewise disregarded.

There was a particular personal factor with me. When I started souvenir collecting in 1987 the only catalogue was Rosen and that with inadequate coverage of souvenir sheets alone. Though happily two excellent catalogues were published in the 1990s, Chatfield's pre-1950s Commemorative Labels and Morgan's British Stamp Exhibitions, they were not intended to give comprehensive coverage of the whole thematic. I had the aspiration to attempt just that. I also knew that this meant buying as much of the modern material as I could find while it was still extant. Fortunately quite a bit of it was cheap, because of its unpopularity, a great help when compared with the expensive "golden age".

Fairly clear about what was philatelic, there were nevertheless several awkward cases to resolve. They arise from the grey area, where the activities of the Post Office overlap into philately. Several unsatisfactory attempts at a unified listing finally persuaded me that the best solution was simply to make a separate list for what I termed postal souvenirs, using the same classifications and numbering system that I had evolved for philatelic souvenirs. Some of the allocations between philatelic and postal can be mentioned.

The opening of philatelic counters in the 1980s was frequently commemorated with a special postmark. In turn it leads to trying to find an example of postmarks from each of the counters that existed, as most have now closed. The British Postmark Society's Pearson and successors document everything in their publications and for me philatelic counters are "postal". In similar vein, the Post Office Regions issued an extensive range of postcards in the 1970s and 1980s, another enterprise since killed off. These postcards are a large collecting area in their own right. Roberts's Regus Collectors' Guide catalogues them and they clearly do not need the listing repeated in my own. But I include with "postal" any special postmark commemorating the first day of issue of the cards.

Royal Mail has re-run mailcoaches over historic routes, sometimes with stamp dealers as sponsors, and items from these events are also in "postal". I found the cacheted covers produced especially attractive.

The Post Office is an active promoter of its own services, but the catalogue mostly ignores the resulting material. No entries are therefore made for modern items like inauguration of Postbus services, visits to post offices, and propaganda campaigns for postcodes or "Collect British Stamps" through slogans. Some special postmarks relating to early postal history find a place in "postal", however, such as revival of old postboxes or anniversaries of ancient postal buildings.

The National Postal Museum, as part of the Post Office, issued a great many postcards of its own, as well as the occasional cover, before abandoning the exercise. They are not listed as such (the Regus Catalogue includes them), only where they are thematically relevant. Such instances are the celebration of National Stamp Day with special postmarks beginning in 1981; cards that include inset postmarks in the design; postmarks and cachets marking postal history anniversaries or the Museum's attendance at British stamp exhibitions. The Friends of the Postal Museum have produced cachets as souvenirs of their Stands and both Post Office Archives and the (Edinburgh) Philatelic Bureau have recorded their presence at exhibitions by cachet, Archives having a series of postcards for a few years. All the material has merited listing as “philatelic”.

With the 1970 Philypia the Post Office intensified its financial and publicity support of the international exhibitions held each decade in London. It issued special postage stamps, booklets and premium-priced miniature sheets, playing a major role in the success of the 1970, 1980 and 1990 shows and providing funds to set up the British Philatelic Trust. Everything produced is highly relevant to the “philately” theme but not, of course, as souvenir material because the items prepaid postage. This also applies to the series of illustrated booklet covers for Postal History (1981-85), resumed in 1993, well worth collecting (in parallel) for the interesting information contained, and the various special postmarks used on First Day of Issue.

Foreign postal administrations have provided special cards and cachets when they have been present at British exhibitions. My listing of them under “philatelic” is not extensive: it is a particularly poorly documented area which I never tackled seriously. For the parallel collection, too, there are many postage stamps and sheets issued by foreign countries to commemorate our exhibitions.

Collecting the Material

The field of philatelic and postal souvenirs is so large that there is certainly a case for specialising. It could be to concentrate on a particular series of exhibitions, like Stampex, BPE or Showpex or annual events such as the British and Scottish Congresses. As with conventional stamp collecting, the limiting factor might be date, so that (say) only material issued prior to 1950 is sought. Another possibility is to collect only certain types of souvenir, such as all labels or all covers. My own original intention, for example, had been to acquire souvenir sheets only and nothing else. The subject became so interesting that I quite soon broadened out. I also gradually realised what souvenirs were my special favourites. They were: cachets, private booklets and, above all, postcards illustrated with postmarks – “postmark postcards”.

For someone considering starting a collection of souvenirs, mention of my own experience may be of some interest. The main drawback is its sheer size if approached in the all-embracing way I favoured. It brings problems, because different kinds of albums and stockbooks, backed up with envelopes and boxes, will be needed just for storage and they can take up a lot of space. Some souvenir folders, sheets, postcards and covers come in an awkwardly large format, difficult to know how to mount or store, too. Without some kind of methodical approach the accumulation can remain just that, shoe boxes crammed with unorganised and unfindable items, not really a collection at all. Elementary things like putting items away in chronological order of event while they await proper attention and labelling the envelope holding them can reduce unnecessary work. Souvenirs en masse lack the orderly neatness of traditional stamp collections: they are straggling, but full of their own fascination for all that.

My own disposition was to keep an updated checklist of the material as I acquired it. It is harder to remember just what covers and postmarks are already in stock than with ordinary stamp collections. I coupled this with buying things as soon as they were announced as available. Royal Mail's British Postmark Bulletin was essential in knowing what special postmarks were imminent and I made much use of the reposting facility it offers. This failed on one occasion only in the scores of times I used it, when a self-addressed cover was lost in transit. The service from Royal Mail's Special Handstamp Centres was impeccable. In connection with my bibliographic work I received all the current British stamp magazines and always kept an eye out for mentions of souvenirs accompanying philatelic events. The advertisements likewise gave occasional pointers to which small dealers handled this type of material, often through regular lists of offers.

Current material from local-society events was thus picked up from the philatelic press and, again, the service was exemplary. Enquiring to local societies for things they had produced years before could not be expected always to produce results, however. Though the correspondence from them was invariably as helpful as possible, stocks could long since have run out or been lost sight of. It was quite rare for the courteous enquiry to be totally ignored. The voluntary workers running a society are normally gratified that someone living in another part of the country is taking an interest in their efforts.

There are the usual possibilities for tracking down older material: specialist societies, stamp dealers, the smaller auctions, stamp fairs and the exhibitions themselves. I was a member of the Cinderella Stamp Club, the British Postmark Society and the Alba Stamp Group (Scotland), and these are dealt with separately, below. One's own local society sometimes yields items if they run an auction and I was not unaccustomed to fellow-members giving me stray labels or covers they never quite knew what to do with. They were only too pleased to pass them on to someone who would appreciate them.

Of dealers' regular lists of offers, I found the most fruitful over many years to be those published by Roger Hudson of Coventry, a specialist in GB postal history, and Arthur Roberts of Marple (Rejun Covercards) for current souvenir material, but who held extensive stocks of older items and ran postal auctions. The Lyndhurst dealers, Allan Grant's Rushstamps, supplied me with many unusual items of all periods, too, and the frequent auctions by Sandafayre of Knutsford sometimes had material of relevance. Service from all those named was faultless and rapid. Gradually, as I got to hear of them, I was perusing lists from several other mail order dealers with gratifying results.

What stamp and postcard fairs I visited usually led to more purchases, as did the boxes of covers on the dealers' stands at exhibitions. When I lived in London it was easy to go to all the regular exhibitions, which I did. After I had moved to the country, I was extremely fortunate: a valued friend and fellow-enthusiast appointed himself honorary "agent" and meticulously made the rounds on my behalf. Through his kindness I had an example of each new souvenir issued at a London exhibition, often unknown to me otherwise.

My own experience as a collector of souvenir material was altogether very pleasurable. Being ongoing, the thematic maintains the interest daily, but hunting for older elusive items has exactly the same attraction as with conventional philately. As it provided an opportunity for my particular specialisations in philatelic history and cataloguing too, I consider all the time and effort I devoted to it well worthwhile.

Study Groups

Souvenir material is one of the many areas covered by the Cinderella Stamp Club and this is the relevant study circle for the theme. Since 1961 the Club has produced a leading specialist journal, The Cinderella Philatelist and numerous other publications; its packets and auctions are specially important as sources for souvenirs.

The Exhibition Study Group is concerned with researching the history and background of exhibitions worldwide and was formed in 1981. Philatelic exhibitions are but one part of the story, though of definite interest to some of the members and occasionally featuring in the Group's publications. It is a focal point for exhibition ephemera and collectables, which have been produced in astonishing diversity over the years and do not consist solely of the thousands of known postcards. My index to its Journal (formerly Newsletter) has been published by the Group and will lead to its philatelic articles.

Philately has always been strong in Scotland and numerous events have been staged in the country. It is the source of many interesting souvenirs, inclusive of the annual Congress. I found it worthwhile to become a member of the Alba Stamp Group, the body devoted to all aspects of Scotland as reflected in stamps and postal history. The Group's regular postal sales usually yielded some new material for me.

I benefited greatly from membership of the British Postmark Society, which had been founded in 1958. The thoroughness of its documentation of current and past developments, coupled with the high quality of its publications and members' researches, was most impressive. The section of its circulating packet for special postmarks was a prime source of this type of cover for me for a long time while building up the collection.

Conspectus

The quest for recognising unambiguously each of the known kinds of souvenir led eventually to 49 separate descriptive terms and I list these in the notes on classification in section 3. (A few of the less-used terms could probably be merged with others, though.) Some of the terms were evolved to contain keywords to take advantage of the database's facilities of "finding" or "filtering". I also explain in that section that to determine an order of listing for the catalogue I set out the items for a given event in broad groups. Order is not a problem for postage stamp catalogues because stamps have denominations; but, of course, souvenirs do not, hence the decision to use the following sequence:

- Labels
- Souvenir sheets and souvenir cards
- Postage stamps and booklets
- Covers, postcards and postal stationery
- Postmarks and cachets
- Forgeries and facsimiles.

Examination of the database catalogue will quickly show how this works in practice. The commentary below may help give a taste of what sorts of item are met with in collecting souvenir material. The remarks there are very roughly in the same sequence, but with interrelated subjects kept together.

Labels

PUBLICITY LABELS for circulation in advance of the exhibition are collectable souvenirs. Their debut can be a very early indeed: my first sightings of labels for two big shows (Stamp Show 2000 and Glasgow 2000) were over two years before the exhibitions were due to open (and by which time I had retired). Over the years publicity labels have become much less elaborate in production, since 1960 usually self-adhesive stickers on a backing sheet. Some collectors dislike these because the adhesive can deteriorate.

The SOUVENIR LABEL is not an ephemeral item but something designed to commemorate the event and be kept as a memento. There is often no very clear distinction between publicity and souvenir labels, but having the two terms can sometimes be useful. At the 1934 APEX, for example, there was a simple inscribed publicity label, lithographed in bluish grey; but in addition the exhibition produced a handsome engraved souvenir label of an aeroplane above Tower Bridge, which could be had in six different colours.

Labels are very desirable when found on exhibition mail and will add a pound or two to the value of a cover; but be careful the label was not simply added to deceive long after the event. From their inception in the earliest days, labels have been deliberately printed in a series of colours. The Viking ship publicity label for the 1899 Manchester International Exhibition was produced in six pairs of colours; beginning in 1910 the Philatelic Congress regularly had a souvenir label in anything up to six different colours.

Publicity and souvenir labels can be collected as complete SHEETS. The number of labels in a sheet has been quoted whenever it could be found and is commonly between 12 and 24. Traditionally rectangular, Stamp 95 at Wembley issued "See us at" publicity labels in circular format instead. Labels in uniform design have occasionally been issued in very large (printers') sheets, meant for use in providing singles or blocks of four. Examples are the 1912 Ideal Stamp (sheet of 240), the 1923 Mercury Airmail labels (100) and the 1955 De La Rue Centenary labels (32 and 50). These sheets, rarely surviving complete, have an added interest: any marginal markings, like printer's imprint and plate numbers, can still be found and collected as marginal blocks.

Souvenir Sheets and Souvenir Cards

The familiar SOUVENIR SHEETS are like miniature sheets but without postal validity and reproduce one or more items together with appropriate decoration and inscription. They are meant to be collected as an entire item, not divided up, and are usually offered for sale as a complete unit accordingly. They are not always gummed and may bear a serial number. There was a brief vogue in the second half of the 1970s to print souvenir sheets on thick stock: these are best called "souvenir cards". A short-lived complication earlier in the decade was also the "postally valid souvenir sheet". Both these variants are mentioned later.

Souvenir sheets vary greatly in size. Perhaps the neatest series, those for BPE 1971-85 (90 x 65mm), can be contrasted with the superb Liechtenstein Study Circle sheets of 1961 (197 x 144mm) and the rare 1965 Schoolboys and Girls Exhibition sheet (171 x 220mm).

During the second half of the 1930s some sheets of souvenir labels underwent a change. Instead of featuring a single design, those from Congress depicted different designs across the sheet. As the wide sheet margins also had commemorative inscriptions, they have been regarded here as souvenir sheets, especially as they were offered for sale as a unit. (The sheet was, of course, usable broken up into individual labels, and singles are frequently found on cover.) The three sheets produced for the London Stamp Exhibitions of 1936 and 1937 were also of small size with commemorative inscriptions, so have been listed as souvenir sheets, though each featured labels of a single design in these cases.

Souvenir sheets may be housed or affixed in suitable FOLDERS or SOUVENIR FOLDERS and these can include informative notes.

The items reproduced on souvenir sheets are usually issued postage stamps, but essays, proofs or unadopted designs are sometimes featured instead. These latter are of special interest philatelically, as are the examples of great stamp rarities in reproduction that souvenir sheets offer. An unusual variant is seen for the 1963 Thematic Exhibition of the Polish PS, Manchester: the souvenir-sheet design was additionally printed on to a postal stationery postcard.

Souvenir sheets may be produced in more than one version, notably both on gummed paper and on self-adhesive backing. Sheets with altered paper or colour may be special PRESENTATION SHEETS, as occur in the BPE series. These were reserved for the helpers and given with the menus of the Exhibition Dinner. Bournemouth Philatex sheets occur on ordinary paper but also on glazed cards. This latter type of special printing is then listed as a "presentation sheet".

A valuable adjunct to the BPE souvenir sheets was to include an INFORMATION SHEET, giving useful background data on the item illustrated and the method of printing. An INFORMATION CARD is the same thing, but card is used instead of a piece of paper and is found as an enclosure to a cover. These initiatives are of great benefit to the collector and, mounted alongside the item to which they relate, the sheet or card tells the full story of the item.

Errors of printing do not seem frequent with souvenir sheets. What few I acquired were usually missing colours and are duly listed.

Souvenir sheets occur as SPECIMENS and the practice appears to have been initiated at the 1935 Philatelic Congress. Well known is the "Sample Not for Sale" overprinted on to the sheet issued for the 1950 International in London. Sheets may well be distributed for publicity ahead of an exhibition and the "specimen" or other marking mimics the practice used for new issues of postage stamps. But such overprinting is also an easy way of creating extra collectable items and this is undoubtedly the reason for numbers of modern instances. Some specimen overprints are of doubtful provenance, too: a handstamp that is absolutely identical on three separate sheets (1972 Showpex, 1972 Runcorn, 1973 Liverpool Collectors' Fair) could well have been applied posthumously to remainders, for example.

Cases are known of the conventional use of specimen overprints, namely on souvenir sheets submitted to exhibition organisers by the printers. By their nature they will normally be preserved in archives and not be available on the market, but they do exist.

A further legitimate use has been made of specimens for purposes of presentation. Stampex sheets overprinted specimen were issued in souvenir folders, suitably inscribed; BPE in 1984 and 1985 affixed a specimen sheet to a PRESENTATION CARD. In both cases the sheets are tied with the exhibition cachet.

About 20 instances are known from 1965 onward where souvenir sheets have been given overprints of thematic nature (Europa, Kennedy, Royal Wedding, etc.). Until provenance can be established, they are listed as PRIVATE OVERPRINTS applied to remainder sheets. Some scarce private overprints, produced unofficially at the 1911 Congress, made use of locals and even forgeries as the basic material.

Postage Stamps and Booklets

COMMEMORATIVE OVERPRINTS, on the other hand, are well attested. The most celebrated (and expensive) are the "L.P.E. 1890" overprints on two unissued postage stamps of Mauritius for the London Philatelic Exhibition of that year. But they have occurred sporadically since, sometimes on postage stamps and hopefully then with permission.

The earliest Philatelic Congresses before the First World War were keenly interested in producing souvenir material. An unusual innovation was to modify the souvenir label as an IMPRESSED DIE printed on some other item. The Birmingham Congress of 1911, for example, did this with an invitation card and a menu. In modern times impressive souvenir material for the Royal Philatelic Society's Presidents' Dinner in 1994 used an actual postage stamp die, the 1867 South Australia 2s. The stamp in ultramarine was impressed on the menu, dinner ticket and a plain card, then in carmine on an information card.

Much more extensive are privately produced BOOKLETS, panes for which usually come from dismembered sheets of postage stamps. An innovative series for the Northeast Philatelic Weekends has been issued annually since 1982; it seems likely more booklets remain to be recorded and this is another area recommended for research.

Printers' SAMPLES have been made or presented at philatelic exhibitions. These are a class of publicity label, sometimes intended to demonstrate particular printing processes and the quality of workmanship. One by Harrison showing a ship and mounted on a card was available at Stampex in 1957, for example. Instead of specially printed labels, printers have also mounted postage stamps they have produced on advertising cards, as at the 1956 Gibbons Centenary Exhibition.

The modern invention of the PRESENTATION PACK was introduced at the 1974 Festival of Stamps as an adjunct to a postally valid souvenir sheet. Apart from a couple of Society souvenirs in 1981 and an attempt at a pop-up version for the 1982 Covent Garden Stamp Festival, packs do not appear to have caught on. The PERFIN has also been pressed into service occasionally, such as for National Stamp Day in 1976-78. Perfins serve the same purpose as commemorative overprints; since 1980 their chief proponents have been the organisers of Polish events in Britain. For the 1975 Festival of Stamps a PERFIN BOOKLET was even produced where perfinned “Heritage” postage stamps were presented in booklet form.

TRIALS of souvenir sheets show some differences from the issued versions. An interesting case for 1972 Philatex has four sheets in unissued colours that show unwanted coloured borders to the reproduced £1 PUC postage stamp. The postcard for the Merseyside PS Anniversary in 1981 had a poster reproduced in full colour: there were six trial printings in small quantities for the colours and these were subsequently made available to members. Genuine PROOFS, such as occur with early Philatelic Congress material, are another part of the more offbeat items to be found among souvenirs. And once again it is 1890 that provides an example of a PROOF POSTCARD.

Covers, Postcards and Postal Stationery

POSTCARDS of a commemorative nature date back to the earliest days, the 1899 International Philatelic Exhibition at Manchester producing one with the Viking ship motif and four views of the city. The idea was taken up when Congress was founded in 1909, its very first souvenir being a postcard in attractive Art Nouveau style. There is at least a theoretical intention of a postcard seeing passage through the post, though often it is not inscribed “postcard”.

A special usage of the postcard has been to express thanks to exhibition helpers, as at Scotex 1986, so creating a PRESENTATION POSTCARD. A particular, widely adopted type of postcard uses an array of postmarks for the illustration – the POSTMARK POSTCARD. By thus summing up the postal history of the town or region where the philatelic event took place, this type can make an attractive collection approaching 200 different postcards. The elaborate set of postmark postcards issued for the 1947 Congress at Birmingham merited including a leaflet of lengthy descriptive notes as POSTMARK INFORMATION.

SOUVENIR CARDS differ from postcards only in that there is no intention of being posted, the items being produced as straightforward souvenirs of an event. They are sometimes glazed and with gold edging. As already stated, some souvenir sheets have been printed on stock heavier than the usual paper or parchment and are best regarded also as souvenir cards.

The noted postal historian, W.G.Stitt Dibden, has listed a TELEGRAPHIC CARD for the 1890 Guildhall event. I never found any further information about it and it was seemingly unknown to other authorities.

Souvenir COVERS exist in large numbers, frequently unrecorded, and research will undoubtedly unearth more. Two types are commonest: the inscribed and the illustrated. The inscribed usually give simple printed details of the event, though this may include a town coat of arms or a philatelic society logo too. Illustrated covers carry some picture relating to the event and this is the type most sought and collected nowadays. Several different colour printings of an illustrated cover are quite usual, particularly those from Congress, and it is interesting to establish the range of colours and to acquire an example of each.

Covers are frequently posted unsealed, but if they are not it is advisable to slit them open with a paper knife to examine the FILLER or FILLER CARD. If not a collector's makeshift stiffener it is most likely to have been specially printed for the event and contain useful information in amplification of the cover. For example, a 1982 Chalmers Bicentenary cover illustrated with a portrait supplements this with a filler outlining his place in postal history. When the Wiltshire Federation held its Convention in Bath in 1970, the cover showed the Bath Mailcoach but the filler card had a brief history of the Post Office building. A particular sort of filler is the POSTMARK FILLER. The illustration there is an array of postmarks of the locality in which the event took place. A cover inscribed for the Kendal Gathering in 1971 used this device. The Kendal PS staged an exhibition and used the filler to show Kendal postmarks. A postmark filler of Stroud postmarks appeared for the Three Counties Convention held in that town in 1983. This was my only knowledge of the event, as the cover mentioned as issued in the press never came my way.

Before the Post Office rationalised the numerous sorts of postal stationery out of existence, a great deal of use was made of them in devising exhibition souvenirs. The first souvenir of all was an item of postal stationery, the penny postcard issued at the 1890 Penny Postage Jubilee celebration at Guildhall. A similar event shortly afterwards at South Kensington saw an illustrated ENVELOPE, also impressed with a penny stamp.

Some of the postcards issued for annual Conferences of the Postal History Society are notable for appearing in two forms, with and without impressed franking. More esoteric sorts of stationery have figured on infrequent occasions from the very early days. The London Philatelic Exhibitions of 1890 and 1897 made use of Newspaper WRAPPERS franked at ½d. and given commemorative overprints. In modern times the first Convention of the Isle of Man Federation in 1976 overprinted an AEROGRAMME and favoured this unusual souvenir material several times later. National Stamp Day in London in 1977 made use of a LETTER-CARD in which to feature a black print from the Silver Jubilee postage stamp issue. The Association of Essex PSs had celebrated its own Silver Jubilee in 1969 with a Convention at Chelmsford notable for a wide variety of souvenirs for this milestone event. Specially designed LETTER-SHEETS were one such. The AEPS has been especially innovative in the souvenirs for its regular Conventions and Rallies and – as they have troubled to document these items – have added much to the interest of the thematic. Founded in 1944, their very first “Congress” at Southend in 1945 produced a postmark postcard, which is a rarity in used condition.

Until it withdrew the service in October 1973 the Post Office would impress stamps on private stationery and much philatelic use has been made of this. The Stamp Collecting Promotion Council at the 1974 Festival of Stamps made a special feature of POSTALLY VALID SOUVENIR SHEETS, though the idea had been used before then. The items resemble souvenir sheets, with suitable inscriptions and illustrations added alongside the impressed stamps. Very soon, as stamping-to-order was by then defunct, this type of souvenir sheet was manufactured from cut-down postal stationery envelopes. Because of the impressed stamps they could still be advertised as “postally valid”. Actual postal use on cover is more desirable for the collection than the more frequently seen mint examples.

A handful of exhibitions, starting with the 1934 APEX, have used the PIGEONGRAM, a quaint and attractive type of souvenir.

Postmarks and Cachets

There have been over 10,000 special POSTMARKS of which philatelic events have accounted for 1100 or so. The special postmark was initiated for souvenir material by the Post Office in 1890 as part of the celebration of the Penny Post Jubilee. As soon as Congress came into being in 1909, a postmark was the usual adjunct to a philatelic event and this continued for the rest of the century. Thanks to the comprehensive documentation produced by the British Postmark Society it is unlikely that any special postmarks for the philatelic theme remain to be discovered; however, the Society's continuing researches do make refinements to the existing lists as new information comes to light. These may add such data as further code letters or time indicia to known postmarks. Very rarely does a POSTMARK PROOF become available to collectors and I was specially pleased to have one from the 1936 First London Stamp Exhibition.

In my database catalogue note especially the range of postmark dates for the Philatelic Congress; this annual event is listed at the day when the Formal Opening occurred, which is sometimes not the postmark first day. Likewise the Postal History Society Conferences' one-day postmark (shown with FD and date) often did not coincide with the Conference opening day.

Plain covers with a special postmark are not difficult to find, especially as much use has been (and is) made of the Post Office's reposting facility. Seen in quantity the covers present quite an interesting historical record of the changing face of the affixed definitives and the transformation when regular commemorative stamps began being produced in the 1960s.

By no means has every philatelic exhibition or event had a special postmark. Thus souvenir covers bearing simple operational postmarks continue to surface, signalling hitherto unrecorded shows and well worth looking out for. In some ways such covers are more attractive than souvenir material with well known special postmarks.

A specialised type of souvenir cover is the commercially produced first-day cover. Some collectors find a place for them when they have an exhibition tie-in, those from the Warwick series 1978-80 being notable examples. On several occasions the Post Office has timed a new issue of stamps for Stampex, providing their own (“commemorative”) covers and special new-issue postmarks. (Full details of fdc’s and their postmarks are in the Bradbury Collecting British First Day Covers catalogue.) Because handsomely produced and franked with complete sets, commercial fdc’s tend to be rather expensive. The collector may feel that, as they commemorate the postage stamps rather than the exhibition itself, they can be omitted in favour of the special postmark on plain cover.

Commercial FDC's, however, can be useful in finding SLOGANS. Exhibitions have made use of this form of postmark for advertising since the 1950 London International but, with the progressive deterioration in quality, the FDC may be the best method of acquiring a legible strike. As Royal Mail discontinued offering slogans in the late 1990s this type of souvenir is now obsolete.

One of the most attractive forms of souvenir is the exhibition CACHET. These are markings provided by the organisers to embellish covers and to cancel souvenir labels and sheets, often resembling postmarks or with pictorial or explanatory motif. Occasionally a defunct operational handstamp has been pressed back into service as a cachet. The BPE cachet has seen service in marking souvenir sheets distributed as trade samples. The 1934 APEX changed the colour of its biplane cachet daily, so there are six varieties to collect. For a while the National Postal Museum and Post Office Archives introduced cachets for postcards sold at Stampex and these were usually provided in more than one colour.

Souvenir mail impressed with METERS (meter stamps) dates back to the 1923 London International Stamp Exhibition, but has not seen much usage over the years. It was interesting that the 1937 Airmail Exhibition at Selfridge's employed meter franking for its postcard in preference to a special postmark.

Forgeries and Facsimiles

Straightforward FORGERIES have so far been unusual in the souvenir field. The much sought after 1890 Penny Post Jubilee represents the exception, with both the Guildhall postcard and the 1890 Christmas Card having attracted the forger. The highly popular Furniss caricatures and Elliot plagiarisms arising from the Jubilee events are listed as PRIVATE ENVELOPES. A legitimate PRIVATE POSTCARD as a subscription reminder from the indefatigable Cinderella collector, Victor Short, also harks back to the great year of 1890. The same collector has produced a PRIVATE LABEL, a near-facsimile of the Ideal Stamp souvenir label of 1912, but reading "Ideal Stamp Albums".

FACSIMILES of souvenir labels and sheets have been issued as such. The 1974 Festival of Stamps, for example, had available Rotaprint copies of the 1923 Mercury Airmail label, while the 1989 Congress reproduced in facsimile the souvenir sheets of the 1932 Congress, with advertising for the Cinderella Stamp Club added in the margins. The 1987 Tynemouth PS Diamond Jubilee imitated six Penny Post handstamps on mock entires. The Mulready letter-sheet was reproduced in facsimile for the 1990 London International and surely pleased many a collector not otherwise in philatelic souvenir material.

Classification: Content Explanation

The catalogue database has 4,225 records. It is for souvenir material produced for British philatelic exhibitions, but also philatelic events that did not include a formal stamp exhibition as such.

(A separate listing covers postal events, such as mailcoach runs, the opening of philatelic counters and the provision of permanent postmarks for tourists' souvenir mail. This is presented as a checklist only.)

The catalogue database has the following fields:

Sort – Item – Event – Kind – Description – Held – Notes

SORT. Each exhibition or event is defined by the date on which it began. This is quoted as the year (in full) plus its day number, i.e. counting 1 January as 001 through to 31 December as 366 (to cater for leap-years).

Example: 1944-033 = 2 February 1944.

For separate events on the same day, A, B, C ... is added.

Example for 21 May 1966:

1966-142A	Kent Federation Convention, Sittingbourne.
1966-142B	20th Convention YPA, Rotherham.

Some events are known to have taken place, though exactly when remains undetermined. This can also arise if no particular "first day" was set. In such cases the day number is shown as 000, if possible with a note of when the item was first seen. The "000" day number can be followed by A, B, C ... if necessary, for example:

1998-000A	Rushstamps 40th Anniversary
1998-000B	Concorde Study Circle 20th Anniversary.

ITEM. Each item produced for an event is serially numbered 01, 02, 03 ..., giving for example:

- 01 Souvenir label
- 02 Cover
- 03 Postmark.

So that, for example, a full catalogue number for the special postmark of the Concorde anniversary above is: 1998-000B

EVENT. The (normal) date is given plus the name and place of the event.

KIND. The many types of souvenir extant are as listed above. The words are mostly spelled in full for clarity, but where abbreviated this is as shown. Note that a plain cover (usually self-addressed) is not catalogued as such, since they must exist for virtually every event. This explains why some special postmarks or cachets are listed, yet there is no cover to accompany them. The small gummed vignettes produced at Polish exhibitions, intended to be affixed to plain covers to make commemorative items, have been classified as souvenir sheets.

The various souvenirs for a given event are grouped for listing and mostly entered in this order:

- Labels
- Souvenir sheets and souvenir cards
- Postage stamps and booklets
- Covers, postcards and postal stationery
- Postmarks and cachets
- Forgeries and facsimiles.

Within the groupings related items are kept together, for example, a souvenir sheet is listed with its specimens, folders, presentation editions, private overprints, and so on.

DESCRIPTION. A brief indication is given of what the item comprises or what it depicts. Maximum information about special postmarks is included because of their particular importance in souvenir collecting. By kind permission of the British Postmark Society and of Colin Peachey, data and catalogue numbers from their comprehensive standard works have been copied into the database in this form:

Special postmark used on one day only:

Sp.pmk 547.

Postmark used on several days:

9-12 Mar sp.pmk 503.

If the design was different for each day (apart from the date), this is indicated under "Notes".

If there was a new issue of stamps while the postmark was current:

16-20 Sep [NI:19] pmk 758.

A new issue in booklet form, [NI:19] is shown as [bklt NI:19].

Slogan postmarks include the period of use:

Slogan pmk 2202, 7-12 May.

HELD. The database served also as my inventory. Though the collection has now been sold, I retain the record in the database: it confirms in each case whether or not a listed item had actually been seen by me.

NOTES. Where the item was listed from a literature source only, the reference is given. (The sources are cited in full in the bibliography.) The many references to Roger Hudson's monthly sales list of G.B. postal history are shown as, for example, "Hudson Mar 91/Z137", meaning item Z137 in his March 1991 list. For the long run of Stampex publicity labels, I include my type classification, for example "Negus Type D", as published in British Philatelic Bulletin Vol.36 (Sep 1998) pp.14-17.

Notes also expands Descriptions with information like "Set of 12", "Code A above date" or "4 colours".

Frequent abbreviations include:

FD first day – ill. illustrated – inscr. inscribed – NI new issue – op.pmk operational postmark – ppc's picture postcards – p.sty postal stationery – sp.pmk special postmark – sto stamped to order.

Postal Events : Collectables

The system for classifying souvenirs of Postal Events is the same as for Philatelic Events. The catalogue numbers of Postal Souvenirs are prefixed by "P", however, to avoid confusion and overlap with Philatelic Souvenirs.

* The few events marked with an asterisk are also entered in the Philatelic Events database; these have relevance to both themes.

ENDNOTE ADDED OCTOBER 2001

Almost from the start of collecting souvenir material in May 1987 I kept notes in manuscript of the material as I acquired it, but soon making this a word-processed record in list form instead. In the period December 1992 to July 1994, having experimented with a scheme of classification, the list was wholly on disc in a state I felt satisfactory for an eventual catalogue. Several schemes of layout from these listed holdings followed, were tried and discarded. By November 1997, having now Microsoft's Windows 95 and the Access database program, I transferred the word-processed list to database, the more sensible way of maintaining a record needing constant updating. During the transfer I decided on a final, expanded classification system that permitted each item to have a catalogue number, but also made use of the refined sorting possible with a database. I also split away Postal Souvenirs from Philatelic Souvenirs entirely. My interest had always been much more inclined towards Philatelic Souvenirs, but I was seeing attractive items in the cognate

*Postal field that I bought and felt should be recorded. The intention had been to compile a second database for Postal Souvenirs, but this was never realised and the list I kept remains as the word-processed checklist transcribed here. The word "checklist" is chosen deliberately: it simply records my holdings at the time I retired and sold the collection. Unlike the philatelic database, I had not made the systematic search of the literature needed to complete the work. I regard it, therefore, as a foundation that a future collector may find of use. JN

Postmark Cards

My early effort at tracing postmark postcards appeared in the British Philatelic Bulletin for October 1990, followed by additions and corrections to the listing in November 1992. The data was superseded by the serial article I contributed to the Quarterly Bulletin of the British Postmark Society in four instalments, published in the issues for October 1994 and January, April and July 1995, to which the following refers. I kept notes on the subject until about mid-1999, now transcribed here in October 2001. JN

1890 PENNY POSTAGE JUBILEE

Delete square-bracketed note: an example of the Christmas and New Year card was subsequently acquired.

1939 LIVERPOOL

Congress took place 13-16 June 1939, but FD pmk was 14.6.39 and Last Day 17.6.39. This was confirmed by replies to my survey of Congress postmarks for the BPS Quarterly Bulletin, July 1994 and July 1995

1958 WINDSOR

Card now seen serviced: machine cancel WINDSOR / BERKS. 2-PM / 10 OCT / 1958. The important Postal History Society series of postmark postcards, inaugurated at this Conference, had been suggested originally by Adrian Hopkins. The designer of the Windsor card, W.G. Stitt Dibden, stated that the postmark dates are those for which he had seen examples, rather than being an indication of period of use.

1959 LARGS

The sto card cancelled double ring LARGS 1.10.59 and addressed to Bradford was in Roger Hudson's GB postal history list 1.10.96, item N157.

1960 HEREFORD

Card now seen serviced: Hereford 4 / 5.30 PM / 29 SEP 60 cds.

1962 EAST ANGLIAN TPO

1964 HAMPSHIRE

Two further covers (Grand Hotel, Lyndhurst stationery) supplement markings described in original entry and addendum: (1) The stamp cancelled single ring LYNDHURST / F / 9 OC / 64 / HANTS, in black. The 89 LYND / HURST cachet in red in slogan position, tying stamp.

(2) Stamp cancelled double ring LYNDHURST / HANTS dated 10 OC 64, the 64 indistinct. The 89 LYND / HURST cachet to left plus 487 triangular die struck lower left. All markings bright blue. Front also has (narrow) red diamond. Back with two superimposed slogan postmarks LONDON 12 OCT 1964.

1966 WATERFORD & HOLYHEAD

Cachets seen: circular POSTAL HISTORY SOCIETY / CONFERENCE in blue, also strike of barred-oval D82 in black.

1966 HOLYHEAD, MENAI-BRIDGE & BANGOR

Cachets seen: on card (a) strike of barred-oval D82 in black; on card (b) Conference circular cachet in red. According to Roger Hudson's GB postal history list (Nov 1992/S163) the error "Cardiganshire" was corrected to "Carnaervon" by overprinting, but on which card not stated. Not seen.

1970 CHICHESTER

The special postmark 1512 was designed by Brigadier George Viner, according to the P.H.S. Conference report in Stamp Collecting Vol.115 (15 Oct 1970) p.419. The postcard monogram, noted as "C.V." should probably be read as "G.V.", as Brigadier Viner seems to have designed this too.

1971 JERSEY

1983 BATH

The 3-card set now seen: narrates Bath postal history, with pmk illustrations for 1706-1844 [a 4th card is non-pmk illustrated].

1984 ABERDEEN

The quantity of 1000 was split between two printings: 1st on thin card with grey-black ink, qty 500; 2nd on thick card with jet-black ink, qty 500.

1985 WORCESTER (1)

The card was re-used for Opening of New Brierley Hill Delivery Office, 12 Oct 1998. [Sp.pmk No. not noted.]

1987 PETERSFIELD

The reprinted card was re-used with a cachet at the Hampshire Convention 19 Oct 1996. See 1996 Petersfield, below.

1988 NEWCASTLE SHIP LETTERS

Card qty 1000 (FD 150).

1988 NORTH & SOUTH SHIELDS SHIP LETTERS

Card qty 1000 (FD 150).

1988 LIVERPOOL (REPRINT)

The dates of the 70th PCGB should read "22-25 Sep".

1989 LAINDON

Card designer: L.C.Stanway.

1990 VANGE & FOBBING

The card was for the 22nd anniversary of the Basildon PS and designed by L.C.Stanway. Seen serviced: BASILDON / ESSEX 21 APR 1990 cds.

1990 WORTHING

Qty should read: 35 sets on cream paper and 25 sets on white paper. Unissued card. For Worthing promotion. 15 pmks, 1 ship letter and Select Sunny Worthing slogan LP 483t. On cream paper, 148 x 110mm. Qty 8 (2 sheets of 4) produced but unissued. Des. J.E.O.Hobbs. Except for slogan, same pmks illustrated as used on the 2 issued cards (a) – Handstamps of Worthing.

1993 PORT TALBOT

Card qty 250.

1994 EAST GRINSTEAD

Card qty 200.

1994 SOUTH WALES TPOS

Card qty 500 (FD 100).

1994 SWINDON

Acknowledgement. My reiterated appreciation to valued fellow-students of postmark postcards, Arthur Roberts, of Marple, and the late Reg Gibson, of Plymouth. Both were meticulous in sharing their knowledge of this absorbing section of souvenir collecting over many years. JN

Scattered Notes

This section is an edited version of scattered notes made while I was collecting. Unless the context demands, I try not to repeat information already available in the sources listed in the bibliography; that was absorbed into the database catalogue or had been used in my own published articles. [JN Oct-Nov 2001]

1890s

[1890-137]. 16 May 1890 Penny Postage Jubilee Conversazione and Exhibition

The dictionary defines a conversazione as “a social gathering for discussion of the arts, etc.”. Event held at the Guildhall, London, at the invitation of the Lord Mayor, on behalf of the Corporation of the City of London and the Post Office. Opened on Friday and continued Saturday 17th and Monday 19th May.

Cachet. Tombs (Controller of London Postal Service), quoted by Bauschke, places Army P.O. exhibit only at South Kensington Conversazione in July and not at Guildhall. Bauschke's illustration of B.A / E cachet (p.32) appears to contradict.

Postcard. One penny was actually the letter rate, needed because postcards at this time were not permitted to show emblems and inscriptions on the address side. Sold at 6d., premium for the Rowland Hill Memorial and Benevolent Fund.

Presentation postcard. Stitt Dibden shows message printed on reverse of postcard read: “The Post Office of the Uniform Penny Postage Jubilee Conversazione and Exhibition at the Guildhall tender you their thanks for your share in making the event a brilliant success”, the message signed by F.S.Baines, Chairman, and four other signatories. Bauschke (pp.4, 58, 88) shows initials to be F.E.Baines.

Postmark. NPM owns one original steel handstamp [Pearson 18] – HS/SP 003 in their internal catalogue. Its illustration (The Philatelic Year 1988) is as Bauschke type T2, time code 1 and date 23 MY 90. This date does not coincide with any from the 1890 exhibition; nor with the handstamp's re-use for the Great Britain PS exhibition at Guildhall [database 1966-197], which took place 15-23 July 1966. But the handstamp was manufactured to have variable date, so not significant. A correctly dated type T2, code 1, 19 MY 90 is illustrated in PB Vol.5 No.4 (Dec 1967) p.4.

Postmark proofs. Stitt Dibden's reference is to "proofs in black on Post Office paper ... three stamps, large figures, small figures, no figure" of unclear meaning. Bauschke (p.29) says P.O. Archives has no record of the postmarks, but without specifically mentioning the Proof Impression Books as such.

[1890-140]. 19 May 1890 London Philatelic Exhibition

Staged by the [Royal] Philatelic Society of London at the Portman Rooms in Baker Street, which the Stamp News report of 1 May 1890 remarks were "formerly occupied by Madame Tussauds celebrated exhibition". Opened on last day, Monday 19 May, of Guildhall exhibition and ran till Monday 26 May. Not known if this included Sunday 25th. It celebrated the 50th anniversary of Penny Postage but also the adhesive stamp.

Commemorative overprint. The quantity of "L.P.E. 1890" overprints was given by the contemporary Stamp News as 2700, with a sale price of 6d. per stamp. Tête-bêche or double overprints cost 2s. Anstee says the quantity was 1500: this came from an unidentified typewritten note accompanying his purchase of 8 blocks of red-brown stamps and 6 of the blue. The Mauritius sheet size was 216 stamps; as 1½ complete sheets are exactly 2700 stamps this quantity seems more likely than the 1500, which does not divide exactly by 216.

The undenominated Mauritius Britannia stamps in both red-brown and blue were regularly ordered from London (1848, 1857) but never issued. Most of these imperf sheets were then remaindered in 1872. Lt. (later Major) Edward B.Evans, a Royal Artillery Officer serving there and much involved in 1890 in the London exhibition, seems the likely source of the remainder sheets.

They were perforated 11½ at the exhibition by Perkins Bacon on their first hand-operated machine by the same lady (Miss Stewart) as did this 30 years earlier. Nevertheless, the overprints are reported as imperf examples.

Anstee confirmed the overprints as being unaligned on his blocks, so must have been made individually. No details have been found of what implement M.P.Castle actually used to apply the overprints on 22 May or whether it has survived.

Overprints are in red, but a block of 4 of the red-brown stamp is illustrated with a black overprint in the Stamp World London 90 souvenir handbook. Its editor, John Sussex, with no access to the relevant papers when I asked about this later could not account for it. Anstee confirmed 29.1.92 that the overprint was not known to him in black. The same block of 4 is illustrated again in Bulletin 1 of Stamp Show 2000 at page 33. The overprints are again black, discounting my suggestion that the Stamp World 90's reproduction could have been fudged to show a red overprint more clearly on a red-brown stamp. However, the original colour photo could simply have been the same one for both publications. Ownership of the block at Bulletin publication date (autumn 1998) is credited to Francis Kiddle.

Forged overprints are alleged to exist, but no identifying characteristics have been traced in the literature.

[1890-184]. 2 July 1890 Uniform Penny Postage Jubilee Conversazione

Second conversazione for one day only, Monday 2 July, held at London's South Kensington Museum, known since 1899 as the Victoria & Albert Museum. Unlike the Guildhall exhibition, its souvenir (envelope and insert) was sold both at the event and for the one day only at main post offices elsewhere. It cost 1s. though franked at 1d.

Souvenir card. Some purchasers kept the envelope and posted the undenominated insert card instead. When not prepaid this attracted a surcharge of 2d. Hudson (Oct91/F510) illustrates a card with a ½d. stamp, postcard rate, endorsed in MS. "Nature of a letter / 1d to pay".

Envelope (1). British Library holds the original hand-drawn artwork. Has a manuscript superscription "Appd with train at / bottom of card / H.C.R." (it had been drawn at the centre). The initials are Henry Cecil Raikes, Postmaster-General 1886-91.

Sandafayre Sale 159 lot 2536 (23.2.94) and re-offered Sale 163 lot 2301 (15.6.94) described an "essay" for the envelope "with suggestions on design by Harding on separate note". Purchase confirmed misdescriptions. Meticulously pen-drawn in indian ink on flimsy, superficially identical to issued design, the "essay" differed in numerous details under magnification. It was also much smaller than the issued envelope. The separate brief note was concerned with prices, not design. I concluded it was probably a (very good) draughtsman's exercise; alternatively it might be a drawing from which to make a line-block illustration in a magazine or advertisement.

Private envelopes (1)-(4). Harry Furniss (1854-1925), British caricaturist and illustrator, designed the witty caricatures of the exhibition envelope and insert card. First 100 copies were signed for private subscription by members of the [Royal] PS of London. Comparison of signatures illustrated in Bauschke, Hudson and PB Feb 1980 suggests a facsimile signature was used – printed or rubber-stamped? Hudson has (Jan89/A18) offered example where both envelope and insert card were signed.

Used examples of Furniss (unsigned) envelope
Used 26.7.90 with 1d. lilac London to Ramsgate (Bauschke p.77, ex Hudson Oct87/C29)
Another used 26.7.90 to Ramsgate (Hudson Feb89/B22)
Used 13.8.90 with 1d. lilac within Birmingham (Hudson Mar89/C33; re-offered Mar91/Z36 + Aug92/Q25)
Used AU – 1890 London to Warrington (PB Feb 1980 p.92)
Philatelic usage: Used 24.11.28 with 1½d. KGV London Stamp Exhibition to Birmingham (Hudson Jan91/X119)

Remainders of the Furniss caricature (edition 10,000) were used up by SCF with an overprint in dull red on envelope flap: Presented / with the / Christmas Number of the / Stamp Collector's Fortnightly / December 15th, 1906. Earliest date known used 18.12.06. Philatelic usage recorded: Birmingham Congress to Coventry 8.6.11 (Hudson Jan 91/X84).

William Henry Elliot, 29 Calthorpe Street, London WC, produced imitations of the exhibition envelope and insert card on thin, poor quality paper for sale at 1d. His defence was that they would be a cheap substitute for items only on sale for one day, but withdrew unsold copies after Post Office objections under the Post Office Protection Act 1884. White says edition was about 3000, of which 1500 were "issued", but Bauschke p.78 gives about 500 probably sold. Unaccountably, Lorna Houseman's official history of De La Rue uses an Elliot imitation as illustration (opp. p.80) for the exhibition envelope. According to PB Jan 1971 three examples of the imitation are known postally used.

Wrapper. Packets of the exhibition's envelope were wrapped around with a cream-coloured paper band. Inscription printed in gold between two VR insignia reads: Penny Postage Jubilee / 1890 / Ten Jubilee Envelopes / and / Ten Correspondence Cards. This scarce item is illustrated by White, also Hudson Jun88/K16; an example was exhibited at Stamp World London 90.

The envelopes were also made up into packets of 100, but no illustrations of bands have been seen.

Envelope (2). Two unidentified covers are mentioned in the exhibition's "Instructions for Postal Duty" p.6 (Bauschke p.62): "Registered Letter official covers, with cards enclosed in them, for the safe transmission of the Jubilee Special Envelopes through the Post, will be on sale, price 3d. each, and ordinary covers with card, price 1d. each." The NPM had no knowledge of these items on enquiry in 1990.

Postmarks. Pearson lists two steel handstamps for the exhibition of identical design but differing in size. The larger, No.21 (37mm dia.), has fixed date 2. JY. 90., but he notes it has also been seen on a cover with smaller date and lacking the dot after JY. NPM holds an original handstamp, catalogued by them HS/SP 005, but lists it as rubber and it lacks dots after both 2 and JY.

The smaller (32mm) is also listed at Pearson No.22 as a steel handstamp and shows dots after both 2 and JY. An original held by the NPM is again listed as rubber (ref. HS/SP 004) and its date is 2. JY 90, i.e. no dots after JY and 90. This handstamp was struck as a cachet on the cover for a Centenary Dinner on 6 May 1990.

[1890-309]. 4 November 1890 Jubilee Christmas & New Year Card

Postmark postcard. A souvenir sold at 6d. in aid of the Rowland Hill Memorial and Benevolent Fund.

Characteristics of genuine card: Large (165 x 241mm) greetings card, illustrated with portraits, scenes and Penny Postage Jubilee postmarks. Typo and litho in grey-green and brown on thick, soft stock by De La Rue.

Forgery. In only report traced (SL Apr 1983), forgery credited to Thomas Bray c.1978 and printed by photogravure on thinner card. More detail would be helpful. Was "photogravure" actually photo-litho or halftone blocks for the two colours?

[1897-204]. 22 July 1897 London Philatelic Exhibition

The [Royal] Philatelic Society of London joined with the trade and the exhibition was held at the Royal Institute of Painters in Water Colours, Piccadilly, from 22 July to 5 August 1897. The event was in honour of Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee.

Sheet. Anstee's article gives the sheet of Mulready publicity labels as 28 (4 x 7), but Chatfield has catalogued it as 36.

Wrapper. There were no postal facilities at the exhibition, but Anstee also illustrates a ½d. newspaper wrapper overprinted London Philatelic Exhibition 1897 and it was said to be on sale. By whom and whether this item was official or private is not stated.

[1899-181]. 29 June 1899 International Philatelic Exhibition, Manchester

Organised by the Manchester PS at the City Art Gallery from 29 June to 5 July 1899.

Publicity label. Chatfield credits the Viking Ship design to Sidney [sic] Turner, well known for philately-related artwork. The Exhibition Catalogue cover, which is in the same Art Nouveau style as the label, is however signed: W.Dinsmore del. M'chester.

Sheet. No sheet size has been traced.

Postcard. An article by Gordon Anstee seen in draft illustrated a souvenir postcard. The Viking Ship motif was accompanied by four views of Manchester – Art Gallery, Town Hall, Ship Canal and the Exchange. The inscription at bottom right read: Wilson & Hudson, M'chester. A postcard with souvenir label affixed was in the Glass Slipper Auction 6.11.87/1603 and this one may have been meant.

1900s

[1909-049]. 18 February 1909 1st Philatelic Congress of Great Britain, Manchester

The Manchester Junior PS staged the first Congress on 18-20 February 1909. Continuing annually since (except for wartime interruptions), Congress was prolific of souvenirs till the 1980s.

Cover. Possible cover in addition to the well known souvenir postcard is suggested from Glass Slipper auction 6.3.95/5559. The lot was for a 20.2.09 Congress special postmark on an "Exhibition printed envelope". However, assumed to be a bulk mailing of plain covers for the special postmark, each one with the same printed address.

1910s

[1910-118]. 27 April 1910 2nd Philatelic Congress, London

Organised by the Herts Philatelic Society 27-29 April 1910, the Congress had no special postal arrangements: the inaugural 1909 Congress had had a temporary P.O. and special postmark.

Sheet. A sheet of souvenir labels accompanied each Programme. Sheets were also printed by J.Dunbar Heath (of Perkins Bacon) as demonstration to his paper on 27 April "The Manufacture of Stamps", then given to delegates. Morris says 500 sheets printed, then plate destroyed at meeting. Holman (S-UK Nov 1990 p.69) says 500 sheets of each colour.

Presentation sheets. Sheet of souvenir labels in gold printed for King George V (then Prince of Wales), the Congress Patron. Sheet of labels in silver for the Earl of Crawford, who opened the Congress.

Impressed die (1). Banquet menu (Café Monico 28 Apr 1910) has outer grey cover, decorative print in green. Impressed die affixed at top of front cover. Menu as 4-page insert held with green ribbon, letterpress printed in red and black on thick cream card. Imprint of Perkins Bacon & Co. Ltd. Impressed die 23mm square, engraved in carmine on to thick card 29 x 28mm. Modified from original die of 1857 Newfoundland 1d., SG Type 1. Corner denominations replaced by crosses. Country inscriptions replaced by PHILATELIC / CONGRESS OF / GT. BRITAIN. One Penny at foot replaced by H.P.S. APRIL 28TH 1910.

Impressed die (2). On Banquet invitation card engraved in deep violet. At top the impressed die resembling 1855 Van Diemen's Land, Chalon Head, SG Type 3. Modified from original die by replacing country name with engine-turning and in place of denomination the words HERTS PHIL. SOC. Thick card. 21 x 27mm die.

[1911-159]. 7 June 1911 3rd Philatelic Congress, Birmingham

Souvenir label. T.B.Widdowson (delegate of Leicester PS) gave a paper on "Direct Plate Printing in Two Colours" on 7 June and this was published in Stamp Collector Vol.15 (1911) pp.111-15. To accompany the lecture the printing company (Artistic Engraving and Printing Co.) gave a demonstration using the souvenir label. It is not clear from Bellamy & Darlow's report exactly which colours of labels were printed on this occasion, so whether that session was in fact the origin of the several "proof" varieties.

Sheet. Morris does not specify the colours of the single rouletted sheet he says was produced nor comment on its status.

Label variety (1). The frame colour for the variety vignette omitted is not specified by Morris.

Label variety (2). The variety vignette double is on the dull purple & black label (Hudson Jun88/BB53). His photocopy Sep 89, colours not stated, had 2 perforated marginal blocks of 4 from lower left corner: this shows more than one sheet must have been printed with this variety. Also shown with the variety were 2 marginal singles from lower right corner.

Label variety (3). The variety frame inverted had appeared in Glass Slipper auction 4.3.95/5268 as a block of 6 (3 x 2) carmine & black label, but as "inverted centre". The Sep 89 photocopies from Hudson did not specify colours; they were for a (perforated) vertical pair, upper right margin, and a marginal single, lower right corner. The depth of margins supports contention that it is frame (not centre) that is inverted. Morris reports one sheet with "inverted centres", colours not given.

Proof (1). Always described as the "die proof", the vignette colour is sepia, not the issued black, and frame is yellow-green. Imperf, 77 x 58mm white paper, un gummed and unwatermarked. A die proof on gummed paper, "green frame" (?vignette colour), was in Glass Slipper auction 4.3.95/5272.

Proofs (2) & (3). Hudson's offer was for two matching pieces of paper bearing strikes from the label, one for the green frame and one for the sepia vignette.

Private overprints. Two kinds of imperf basic stamp have been seen, unissued Birmingham Delivery Company local stamps and the reprint and forgeries of the 1862 Argentine issue of postage stamps. Neither a listing nor any indication of who organised the overprints was traced. L.N. & M.Williams' "Cinderella Stamp Corner" [SM Vol.38 No.454 (Nov 1972) p.57] asserts they were produced by a Midlands collector and repudiated by Congress. If this also implies official disapproval, it does not explain why cancelling-to-order with the special postmark was apparently permitted.

A likely source for the Delivery Company stamps could be H.L'Estrange Ewen, pioneer dealer at the time in this material and other Cinderellas like the Railway Letter stamps. He was one of the "donors towards the expenses of the Congress" according to Bellamy & Darlow's official history.

Tyler shows how Edward Stanley Gibbons, no less, reprinted from the original stone the Argentine 5c. from the 1862 issue, then forged unknown 10c. and 15c. in the same design by altering denominations. Gibbons's stone, reprints and forgeries were in the stock purchased by C.J.Phillips in 1890, who then sold them to a Birmingham dealer, T.Birch.

Overprint (1). Fiscal / & Rail / Exchange / CONGRESS / 1911. on ½d. blue (Chatfield c2a). Basic stamp of Birmingham Delivery Co. (Harman 97) prepared for use 1868, but not issued. Whether the overprint was on this, or one of the many later forgeries, is not clear.

The 3d. yellow is also known as an imperf pair with the overprint (Cinderella SC auction 17.4.99/887). Both stamps of the pair have the Congress special postmark 7 Jun 1911.

Overprint (2). Reads PHILATELIC / CONGRESS / 1911 and was seen overprinted on 6d. Birmingham Delivery Co. There was no 6d. denomination in the original (1868) unissued set, hence basic stamp is a later forgery.

Overprint (3). The Fiscal & Rail Exchange overprint (1) repeated on an Argentine 5c. reprint of 1864 (SG 12). The example seen had 1911. duplicated at the top above the overprint through misalignment.

Overprint (4). PHILATELIC / CONGRESS / 1911 reading upwards. Seen on 1864 Argentine 5c. red reprint (SG 12) and forged 10c. green and 15c. blue.

The reported overprints reading PHILATELIC CONGRESS or 1911 only possibly arise from misalignment.

Congress cto 8 Jun 1911 on unoverprinted stamps

For the Delivery Companies, a pair of 3d. Birmingham with Congress cto 5.15 PM / JU 8 / 1911 but no overprint was seen in photocopy (Hudson Sep 1989). The 3d.is a forged denomination. The same cto occurs on the ¾d. Liverpool / Aberdeen stamp in a block of 4 (Glass Slipper auction 4.3.95/5270). This value would be from the omnibus sheet of 81 Delivery Co. stamps.

For Argentine, the 5c. reprint without overprint is known as a horizontal strip of 3 with the same 8 June cto. It was also seen on a bisect of the 15c. forgery lacking overprint.

Postcards. Of the set of 12, ten were seen in the RPSL Collection Apr 1995:

Postcards 3½ x 5½ in. (88 x 138mm). Divided backs headed Post Card and box for stamp, printed typo in blue-green (Countess of Warwick in black). Fronts illustrated with Congress souvenir label above a portrait, all halftone in black. Portraits and Warwick Castle from photographs, Countess of Warwick from a drawing.

1. Her Ladyship The Countess of Warwick Congress Patron
2. Warwick Castle, from the River
3. R.Hollick, C.C. [= County Councillor] Chairman of Congress Exec. Cttee; Congress Chairman; President, Birmingham PS
4. Councillor G.Johnson, B.A. Hon.Sec. & Treasurer Exec. Cttee and Congress; Hon.Sec. Birmingham PS
5. H.Barnwell Cttee member
6. C.J.Phillips Cttee member
7. W.Pimm Cttee member
8. F.T.Collier Delegate, Birmingham PS
9. H.Grindall Delegate, Birmingham PS
10. W.F.Wadams Delegate, Birmingham PS

Postmark. Bellamy & Darlow place the Congress postbox at the Royal Hotel on p.61, but the Grand Hotel at p.69. Hugen says it was at the Grand Hotel. If mail was cancelled at the Birmingham Head Sorting Office, as alleged, how did the known cto's arise?

[1912-122]. 1 May 1912 4th Philatelic Congress, Margate

Souvenir label. Before listing, confirmation is needed of two varieties in Hudson Apr94: vignette double (J88) and frame inverted (J89).

Sheet of souvenir label. The Britannia label is a triangular, printed in sheets of 18. The layout is formed from 9 tête-bêche pairs disposed 3 x 3. Each pair forms a square with the apexes of the two triangles pointing to top left and bottom right.

Proofs. The examples in the RPSL, donated by a member in July 1914, lacked one of the issued bicolours, grey-blue & black. The other five colours were present as complete sheets of 9 tête-bêche pairs printed on unwatermarked card. These are not unique: Hudson Sep89 offered similar proofs on card, but with stamps trimmed to shape. Glass Slipper auction 4.3.95/5274 had an imperf proof pair on thin paper, frame colour "violet" (?slate-lilac).

Publicity label. Partial imperfs were seen in the RPSL Archives on a complete sheet of the carmine Hotel label, which had 1st, 2nd, 4th and 5th rows imperf. They are known on another colour: Hudson (Oct87/C87) had the violet label as a horizontal LH marginal pair, perf only at the foot. The same marginal pair occurred in the Cinderella SC auction of 19.10.96, though described there as "purple".

With whole rows present on the sheet imperforate, this may be the source of the total imperfs, noted by Chatfield. Hudson Sep89 had sets of all the colours available imperf both as singles or as horizontal pairs.

The RPSL carmine misperforated sheet had an indistinct papermaker's watermark that appeared to read SPECIAL ?TESTING PAPER / LONDON in double-lined caps and small caps. The second word was particularly faint and could be incorrect.

Postcard. The souvenir postcard is black and white photographic with divided back headed POST CARD. It is inscribed "Congress Souvenir". Bellamy & Darlow p.98 say that "Souvenir and Pictorial Postcards [are available] at the Isle of Thanet Society's Stall" [the host Society]. This is taken to mean this one postcard plus local picture postcards. The official souvenir postcard could just have been the Highcliffe Hotel's own usual postcard inscribed for the special occasion?

[1913-114]. 23 April 1913 5th Philatelic Congress, Edinburgh

Congress was hosted by the Scottish PS (Edinburgh), the JPS of Scotland (Glasgow) and the Dundee & District PS. The RPSL Library holds a complete record prepared by the Congress Secretary, inclusive of all ephemera and a group photograph (inf. Ron Negus 7.3.95).

Souvenir label. Imperf corner blocks of 4 of both colours were offered by Hudson (Apr94/J90). Imperf labels were for use on the Congress brochure.

Varieties of the imperfs, [03] vignette inverted and [04] colours of vignette and frame transposed, were seen in photocopy from David Jefferies 21.8.94. He suggested they could be either proofs or souvenirs made for the Organising Committee.

Sheet. The sheets of 12 labels (4 x 3) have no imprint.

Postmark. Congress was in session 23-24-25 April, but the special postmark was also used on the extra day, 26th. My BPSQB survey of Congress postmarks confirmed this.

Undated postmarks from Congress are known, struck on blank registration labels (Hudson Nov93/E103; Jefferies photocopy 21.8.94).

The special postmark on a cover with the printed address of Birmingham dealer, W.T.Wilson, suggests he made a bulk mailing for stock (Glass Slipper auction 4.3.95/5578).

[1914-141]. 20 May 1914 6th Philatelic Congress, London

No special postmark or postal facilities were available at this Congress organised by the Royal Philatelic Society 20-22 May 1914.

Impressed die. Purchased as a souvenir label, this item was in fact a cut-out from the front cover of the Official Programme. This was confirmed from the British Library's copy (inf. David Beech 8.8.94), as the Programme was lacking in the RPSL Library. The label-like engraving by Perkins Bacon is on thin buff card and shows portraits of KEVII, KGV and the Chalon Head of Queen Victoria. Morris's reference says the label appears on front and back covers of the "handbook", which might be construed as the lengthy Official Report rather than the (shorter) Official Programme. Also the back cover of the Report is illustrated by four engravings of Queen Victoria, not the three monarchs repeated.

1920s

[1920-146]. 25 May 1920 7th Philatelic Congress, Newcastle

Souvenir label (2). No explanation was traced why the label reappeared in the same design as the original set and then in only two of the previous five colours.

Postmark. A registered cover with printed address of W.T.Wilson suggests another bulk mailing from Congress by the Birmingham dealer (Glass Slipper auction 4.3.95/5582).

[1922-171]. 19 June 1922 9th Philatelic Congress, Bath

Private overprint. Of the scarce "Go to Bath" overprints on 1920 Liechtenstein postage stamps, Hugen says there were 9 values 10h. to 80h. (SG 29-37). But I also had the 1k. denomination (SG 38). Hudson's offers (Mar98/B79) and my own holding, when compared against Hugen, showed only the 10h., 60h. and 80h. as needing confirmation that they exist.

[1923-135]. 14 May 1923 London International Stamp Exhibition

Souvenir label. Hudson (Apr95/W53) had the set of 6 colours of the Mercury label as unwatermarked imperfs on heavily coated chalk-surfaced paper, but these may be proofs. Morgan lists unwatermarked imperfs for the blue label (23A-54) and the violet (23A-65).

Presentation sheet. The SL article of 1923 gives the impression that a sheet of the Mercury label in gold and another in royal purple were each made specially for presentation to King George V on his visit to the Exhibition and were unique. But as examples in these colours were on the market in March 1993, the inference must be that there were extra printings, as the presentation sheets are presumably still in the Royal Collection. Stamps seen are: (gold) single [aeroplane] watermark, with gum; (royal purple) multiple watermark, no gum. Both examples were imperf.

Souvenir card. Another copy of the PM souvenir card was in Glass Slipper auction 4.3.95/5587. It had a specimen Universal Postal Franker meter stamp and gave details of the process. The PM proprietor and editor, Albert H.Harris, noted for using modern business methods, was an early proponent of meter franking and compiled a catalogue of meter stamps. Lot 5586 in the same auction comprised the first registered cover to bear Universal Postal Franker meter stamps (3 x 1½d.), taken to mean at the Exhibition rather than generally.

[1926-166]. 14 June 1926 13th Philatelic Congress, Liverpool

Postmark. A registered cover postmarked 17.6.26 from Congress and "addressed to [W.T.] Wilson of Birmingham" may indicate another bulk sending by the dealer (Glass Slipper auction 4.3.95/5599).

[1928-321]. 16 November 1928 London Stamp Exhibition

Meter (1) The meter stamp by International Neopost seen was denominated GvR ½d., licence number N1, with dater die London E.C.1. Struck in red. The exhibition was actually held at the Memorial Hall, Farringdon Street, E.C.4.

1930s

[1932-006]. 6 January 1932 Pageant of Postage Stamps, London

Meter. The meter stamp by Roneo-Neopost Ltd. seen was denominated GVR 1½d., licence number N76, with dater die London S.W.1. Struck in red. The slogan contains lengthy details for the exhibition, which did take place in S.W.1 at the Dorland Hall.

[1932-165]. 13 June 1932 19th Philatelic Congress, Brighton

From 1925 to 1931 Congress souvenirs were confined to a special postmark and a single design of postcard illustrative of the Mulready. This was presented each year by the magazine Stamp Collecting under Hugh Vallancey's editorship. The lean period ended with the 1932 Brighton Congress. The designer of its souvenir label was L.J.Gilbert-Lodge, for a long period Hon.Secretary of the RPSL, and who signed the margin of some sheets.

[1933-150]. 29 May 1933 20th Philatelic Congress, London

Souvenir label. The label was issued in sheets [03] printed on seven different types of paper, accompanied by an identifying information card [05]. Writing in Philatelic Paraphernalia No.23/24 (Apr/Jul 1990) p.311, John Holman says: "...nine were planned, De La Rue being unable to obtain supplies of granite and Dickinson paper".

The Congress Banquet at Frascati's in London presented its Menu printed on heavy paper folded as an entire, hand-addressed to the diner, and with a red seal. The Menu also bore a souvenir label; two examples noted both used the blue label.

[1934-128]. 7 May 1934 APEX International Air Post Exhibition, London

Particularly abundant in souvenirs, including autogiro mail and a pigeogram. White's article was a noteworthy guide and is recommended reading.

Souvenir card. Reuben Parker, a London dealer, produced a folded card printed with details of Zucker's first rocket trial. The illustration of a cover shows the cachet without the words "Sussex Downs". The card had an unoverprinted souvenir label (1), Plane & Tower Bridge, affixed by hinge.

Postcard (1). The set of 6 real-photo postcards in black and white showing aerophilately rarities and famous covers comprises:

1. 1905 newspaper pigeon post of Le Matin, Paris.
2. 1911 first UK Aerial Post card.
3. 1919 Newfoundland "Hawker".
4. 1920 first Chinese airmail.
5. Capt. Harry Butler flown postcard.
6. Franklin Relief Expedition message and balloon.

[1935-170]. 18 June 1935 22nd Philatelic Congress, Bath

Souvenir sheet. An early use for a label from the souvenir sheets was on a Christmas card from "the Officers and Members of Bath Philatelic Society" (Hudson Mar95/U108). The card showed Bath Abbey and was inscribed "Hope to have the pleasure of welcoming you to the 22nd Congress", so presumably dates from Christmas 1934. A Congress souvenir label in brown was hinged in a printed space. No other reference was seen.

Souvenir card. The card seen in the RPSL was a printed photographic in sepia, 158 x 132mm. The back was headed Printed Paper Rate, franked with ½d. KGV Silver Jubilee and cancelled with Congress special postmark 9PM / 20 JU / 1935.

Caption down LH & RH sides in caps: Souvenir of the Unveiling of the / Stafford Smith Memorial Tablet. Picture of shop front Alfred Smith & Co. Foreign Stamp Importers.

Caption below: Bath June 21st, 1935 and description The Cradle of Philatelic Journalism! Here was launched on February 1st, 1863 the first number of the Stamp Collectors' Magazine (by Henry Stafford Smith, pioneer stamp dealer and philatelic publisher), Doyen of the Philatelic Press, and the most erudite stamp journal of its day.

At foot: This card comes to you with the compliments of STAMP COLLECTING, LTD.

[1937-046]. 15 February 1937 Airmail Exhibition, Selfridges, London

The famous store had a flourishing stamp department pre-war. The exhibition is said to have been held Monday to Saturday, 15-20 February 1937.

Postcard. Illustrated to left with facsimile of 1911 Aerial Post postcard. Printed in dull blue, 140 x 90mm. Plain back inscribed only Produced by Stamp Collecting.

Meter. The meter stamp was a Pitney Bowes ER die, licence No. PB57, dater die London W.1. The slogan read "Visit the Airmail Stamp Exhibition".

Cards were held using a ½d. die for 15, 16, 17 and 19 February, but the slogan on 15 February read "Shop at Selfridges and Save at Selfridges". No dates 18 or 20 February were seen and, as they were similarly absent in Channel Island Stamp Co. auction 28.2.94/515, they need confirmation as existing.

[1939-059]. 28 February 1939 Prepaid-postage Centenary

Souvenir sheet. Typo on translucent yellowish ungummed paper in yellow-green, a large label 130 x 80mm, stamped-to-order with ½d. KGV postal stationery die. Inscribed Souvenir / Centenary / of / Prepaid / Postage / 1839-40 and cto with cds FRECKLETON / PRESTON LANCS 28 FE 39, index C. A dealer and publisher, William Ward, is known at Freckleton and presumably issued this label and had it cancelled par complaisance.

[1939-340]. 5 December 1939 Uniform Postage Centenary

Cover. Printed cover inscribed "The Centenary of Uniform / Postage throughout the / British Isles / 5th December, 1839-1939", also 5 DE 1839 marking and "4" manuscript mark. Addressed Robson Lowe, 96 Regent Street, W.1.

Information from illustrations in Hudson: used with 4d PAID handstamp 5 DE 39 London W.1 (Feb89/B192); similarly used in London N.W.1 (Jan93/U122).

But also exist used on previous day: with handwritten address 4d PAID 4 DE 39 (Mar95/U122, Feb97/M103). A cover with 4d PAID handstamp dated 4th and overstamped 5th was offered Mar95/U123.

1940s

[1940-010]. 10 January 1940 Centenary of Uniform Penny Postage

Cover. Inscribed at top left "The Centenary of the Introduction of Uniform Penny Postage throughout the British Isles January 10th 1840-1940". At bottom left reproduction of handstruck penny stamp appropriate to the town of 1940 posting. Addressed to Robson Lowe, 96 Regent Street, London, W.1, probably facsimile. Used with meter stamp or 1d PAID handstamp of 10 January 1940.

Illustrations in Benham Stamp & Cover News Jan 1989 and Cover News Mar 1995, Sep 1997 show usage from: Andover, Bangor, Basingstoke, Bolton, Bradford, Brighton & Hove, Carlisle, London W1, Northampton, Slough and York. More towns no doubt exist.

[1940-124]. 3 May 1940 27th Philatelic Congress, Bournemouth

Cover (2). Mulready facsimile in black on cream stock, with Congress details on back flap. Size 152 x 96mm. Sold at 3d.

[1940-127A]. 6 May 1940 Stamp Centenary Exhibition, London W1

Cover (4). Illustrated with QV Chalon Head in oval and inscribed for postage stamp centenary. Recess in blue by Perkins Bacon, 165 x 108mm. Printed address of Westminster Stamp Co.

Pigeongram. Glass Slipper auction 4.3.95/5313 was for a "flown pigeongram from the event and contemporary cuttings". No other reference was traced and not listed till confirmed.

Note. I had not been able to follow up my brother's advice in January 1995 that the RPSL Archives hold files of correspondence relating to the preparations for the 1940 exhibition as well as the Red Cross Fund 1940-45. This is in addition to material on other exhibitions in which the Society has been involved.

[1940-127B]. 6 May 1940 Adhesive Stamp Centenary Exhibition, Bournemouth

Postmark. Pearson's special postmark 288 gives usage 6-14 May, but the brochure for the exhibition at the Pavilion, Bournemouth, advertises it as open 6-11 May only.

[1947-063]. 3 March 1947 National Stamp Exhibition, London SW1

Souvenir label. The inscription "SCA" stood for the Stamp Collectors' Association, but no details of this organisation were traced. The label's dates 3-9 MARCH 1947 differ from the 3-8 MARCH of the cachet. As 9 March is a Sunday, perhaps the planned exhibition opening was cancelled for that day? The label itself was evidently produced in 1946 judging by its imprint.

Cachet. Typical usage on plain cover of the unusually large (58mm) red circular cachet shows a cacheted souvenir label and the adhesives machine-cancelled LONDON S.W.1 / A with the current slogan "Staggered Holidays for Comfort".

[1947-325B]. 20 November 1947 National Stamp Exhibition, Manchester

Cachet. Circular 38mm NATIONAL STAMP EXHIBITION / MANCHESTER dated 20-27 / NOVEMBER / 1947 struck in red: a more normal size. Typical cover bore the complete souvenir sheet cacheted once at the intersection of the four labels, with adhesives machine-cancelled Manchester / P and current "EP" Wedding Bells slogan.

Concurrent National Exhibitions 1946-48

Soon after the war two distinct national exhibitions took place in London and were repeated in provincial cities. These were the "British Philatelic Exhibition" and its overlapping "National Stamp Exhibition" staged in 1946-48. A search of the contemporary press and the exhibition catalogues would be useful in finding out why this happened and whether, as seems possible, they hoped to become regular events. For reference, exhibitions traced for the database catalogue were:

British Philatelic Exhibition

[1946-363] 28 Dec 1946 – 4 Jan 1947 Imperial Institute, South Kensington, London SW7. Not open Sunday 29 Dec. Organised by BPA and PTS.

[1947-297] 23 Oct – 5 Nov 1947 Return to same London venue. Not open two Sundays 26 Oct and 2 Nov. Organised by BPA and PTS in conjunction with the Daily Graphic.

[1947-325A] 20-27 Nov 1947 McLellan Galleries, Glasgow.

[1948-035] 4-10 Feb 1948 Houldsworth Hall, Manchester.

Note. A projected BPE at Birmingham evidently did not take place. Writing in his Stamp Collectors' Bulletin No.4 (Jul/Aug 1947), F.H.Vallancey gave projected exhibitions as Glasgow (Nov 1947), Birmingham (Dec 1947) and Manchester (Jan 1948). Bulletin No.7

(Jan/Feb 1948) reports that they took place in Glasgow and Manchester, but does not mention Birmingham. Note from above that Manchester's event had slipped a month.

National Stamp Exhibition

[1947-063] 3-8 Mar 1947 Central Hall, Westminster, London SW1. Organised by Stamp Collectors' Association.

[1947-325B] 20-27 Nov 1947 Houldsworth Hall, Manchester. Organisers not traced. Held on same dates as the Glasgow BPE.

Note added Nov 2001. As far as I know, the British Philatelic Exhibition of 1946-48 and the regular series of the same name begun in November 1966 were not connected. In 1965 I was invited to the inaugural committee convened by Robson Lowe as one representative from the philatelic press and for discussion of a possible new national exhibition. I attended that and one or two subsequent meetings but do not recall any mention of the 1946-48 BPE.

In addition there was another National Stamp Exhibition, first staged in January 1953 and repeated under that name in 1954 and 1955. From 1956 to date it has been known as Stampex. I do not know whether at its foundation it had any connection with the National Stamp Exhibition of 1947. J.N.

1950s

[1950-127]. 6 May 1950 London International Stamp Exhibition, W1

Specimen. Alongside the souvenir sheets overprinted "Not For Sale" and believed circulated to dealers, the philatelic press received a "bromide", which is a same-size black and white photograph of an (unoverprinted) sheet. The photo had no backstamped identification of source.

Filler card. Insert for the official illustrated cover, 163 x 105mm. Card shows a Mulready envelope reproduced in blue on white stock from a line block. The reverse is an advertising message from John Dickinson & Co. Ltd., designers and producers of the cover.

Postmark (1). Time indicators of the machine special postmark (Pearson 325) held or seen, all of which include "PM":

Sat 6 May: 12.45, 5.15
Sun 7 May: 5.15
Mon 8 May: 12.45
Tue 9 May: 12.45, 5.15
Wed 10 May: 12.45, 5.15, 7.15, 8.15
Thu 11 May: 12.45, 5.15, 7.15
Fri 12 May: 12.45, 7.15
Sat 13 May: 12.45, 5.15

I was told by a dealer in covers that Sunday 7 May is a scarce postmark.

1951 Festival of Britain.

Note that Rosen Nos.Z2A-E are charity labels, sold in aid of the Greater London Fund for the Blind. They do not commemorate a philatelic exhibition.

Key to Stampex History

- [1953-010]. 10 Jan 1953 First National Stamp Exhibition organised by PTS at Central Hall.
[1956-007]. 7 Jan 1956 Renamed Stampex.
[1959-073]. 13 Mar 1959 First souvenir sheet issued, using a UN stamp to illustrate Central Hall.
[1960] No exhibition because of forthcoming London International (9 July).
[1969-053]. 5 Mar 1969 Transferred to Horticultural Hall.
[1971-061]. 1 Mar 1971 Only year with no special postmark because of postal strike during January-March.
[1981-055]. 24 Feb 1981 Renamed Super Stampex because exhibition now staged in both Old and New Halls at Horticultural Hall.
[1986-288]. 14 Oct 1986 Last BPE as separate exhibition.
[1987-063]. 3 Mar 1987 First Spring Stampex following merger with BPE.
[1987-266]. 22 Sep 1987 First Autumn Stampex/BPE.
[1996-024]. 24 Jan 1996 Transfer of Spring and Autumn Stampexes to Business Centre, London N1.

[1957-000B]. [Date] 1957 Boys and Girls Exhibition, Earl's Court, London

No dates for this exhibition were found.

Publicity label. John Holman refers to this label, produced in two designs se-tenant, at p.126 of his Stanley Gibbons Guide to Stamp Collecting (London & Ringwood: SG Publications Ltd., 1989):

“In 1957 Harrison & Sons Ltd. demonstrated perforating on the Gibbons stand at the Boys and Girls Exhibition at Earl's Court. Sheets of labels were perforated and given to visitors; they were produced in mauve and [the SG label depicts] the Cape of Good Hope triangular and the Simplified Catalogue.” [The Harrison label shows a photogravure cylinder.] This suggests a possibility there may still be remainders in the unperforated state.

1960s

[1960-191]. 9 July 1960 London International Stamp Exhibition

Postmark. Two items of artwork for the special postmark were offered in Hudson Mar93/X151.

[1961-302]. 28 October 1961 Surrey Philatelic Exhibition and Convention, Woking

Meter. The Convention illustrated cover [01] was metered in red 2½d., licence No.NE705 (of Royal Electric Furnaces Ltd., Woking), dater die Woking, Surrey, and boxed slogan CONVENTION / OF SURREY / PHILATELIC SOCIETIES / WOKING / OCT. 28 1961 with Mosque.

[1962-000]. [Date] 1962 London Stamp Exhibition, Hilton Hotel, London

No dates for this exhibition were found.

Souvenir sheet. The GB 1882 £5 orange, lettered AA, imperf and actual size, reproduced typo on gummed sheet size 82 x 95mm. Sheet inscribed for exhibition in green letterpress.

Rosen's assertion that sheets were "printed from the original plate" seems improbable. More likely would be a line block made from an example of the original stamp. The registration sheet is lacking stamp AA (according to Tony Wiseman's researches) and there are no suitable plate proofs, either of which might have served to make the block.

The souvenir sheet was reissued overprinted SPECIMEN at the Southern Stamp Fair [1964-296]. The celebrated £5 orange featured in a further, rather crisper, typo reproduction in its centenary year for the 1982 BPE's sheet [1982-280].

[1962-336]. 1 December 1962 Eurostamp London Stamp Exhibition, SW1

The exhibition, organised 1-8 December by Tom Todd and sponsored by the Council of Europe, was legitimate enough. Todd (1911-84) and his Stamp Magazine were prime movers in the London Stamp Exhibitions of 1936, 1937 and 1939. Regrettably, the souvenir sheets gave an opportunity (most likely by some other entrepreneur) for exploiting a contemporary boom in the Europa and Kennedy themes by copious overprinting. This type of production must have contributed to a decline in interest in souvenirs among collectors.

Souvenir sheets 01 & 05. The "Wheel" design was by Reynolds Stone and used for the GB Europa stamps of 1960 (SG 621-2), which are imprinted Harrison and printed photogravure. The souvenir sheets, size 114 x 124mm and gummed, reproduced the stamps imperf and actual size as a vertical strip of 3 x 6d. se-tenant with 3 x 1s.6d., adding a letterpress inscription for the exhibition, signed by the printer Wm.Clowes & Sons Ltd.

The reproduced stamps are in blue; sheet 01 has a red-brown background surround and black inscription, while sheet 05 has a light turquoise-blue surround and red inscription.

According to L.N. & M.Williams, the Postmaster-General disallowed reproduction of the stamps in blue, the sheets were withdrawn and almost all destroyed. How far the destruction went is, however, questionable. As private overprints appeared on these sheets, remaindering seems more likely.

Private overprints on sheets 01 & 05. The sheets were cut down to 114 x 81mm, this guillotining removing printers' imprints and inscriptions for the original exhibition. A caption at foot reads Europa, 1960. Large letterpress overprints were applied to cover all six stamps on a sheet:

- (a) Portrait of President Kennedy
 - [02] On sheet 01, blue stamps, red-brown surround, black overprint;
 - [07] On sheet 05, blue stamps, light turquoise-blue surround, black overprint.
- (b) Small portrait of Kennedy above monument. Left margin with US and Israeli flags. Right margin with English and Hebrew inscriptions for Memorial Forest in Jerusalem Mountains inaugurated 4 July 1966
 - [03] On sheet 01, blue stamps, red-brown surround, black overprint;
 - [08] On sheet 05, blue stamps, light turquoise-blue surround, black overprint.
- (c) Large indistinct portrait of David Ben-Gurion (1886-1973). Left margin with English and Hebrew inscriptions for 80th birthday. Right margin with Israeli flag
 - [04] On sheet 01, blue stamps, red-brown surround, red overprint.

A price-list from Royale Stamp Co., London, advertised a pair of Ben-Gurion sheets, suggesting sheet 05 was also overprinted. This was not seen. Rosen dates above five overprints to an unspecified (and unknown) "1968 Exhibition".
- (d) 10th ANNIVERSARY OF / EUROPA ISSUES / 1956-1965
 - [06] On sheet 05, blue stamps, light turquoise-blue surround, black overprint.

Rosen ascribes this to a "1965 Europa Stamps Exhibition". No other mention of such an event traced.

Souvenir sheet 09. The Williamses call this an “emergency printing”, produced in place of the withdrawn souvenir sheets. The sheet is slightly narrower (111 x 126mm), the Europa “Wheel” stamps are now reproduced in black instead of blue, and there is a light green surround. Any identifying inscriptions, “Eurostamp 1962, London Stamp Exhibition” etc., are absent but a new lengthy red caption introduced at the foot suggests Harrison as the printer. There is muddle over who printed what arising from Rosen’s catalogue and the way the souvenir sheets are inscribed. I favoured (for both original and “emergency” issues) Harrison printing in small sheets of 6 from their own photogravure cylinders, with Clowes overprinting captions on the sheets by letterpress subsequently. I doubt if the Harrison security printer would be permitted to let some other printer have use of cylinders made under official contract – or would wish to lend them out in any case. Reproduction of postage stamps that have not been demonetised was subject to strict rules by the G.P.O. Normally, if in colours identical to the original, stamps had to be shown at least a quarter larger or smaller; otherwise some distinguishing marking (like bars or quarter-circles in black at a corner) had to be superimposed. Reproduction of a coloured stamp in black and white at the original size was permitted; otherwise the colour(s) had to differ in the reproduction from the issued stamp. As souvenir sheets so frequently illustrate stamps, these matters are particularly relevant. Though the regulations themselves underwent periodic changes, it is an interesting study to see how far they were obeyed in practice.

No thematic overprinting was seen on the “emergency” sheet 09, suggesting it was a regularly issued souvenir and not remaindered.

Souvenir sheets 10 & 14. The Lex Weyer “Tree” design used for the 1962 issues of Europa postage stamps was adapted for the souvenir. The sheets were litho printed by Curwen Press, with gum, and of size 117 x 131mm. The Europa stamps are imperf in a block of 6 (2 x 3) on sheets inscribed in deep blue with a claret border. Sheet 10 has stamp background in orange and the leaves of the tree are yellow; in sheet 14 the stamp background is grey-blue and the leaves are green.

Private overprints on sheet 10. The sheet was cut down to 107 x 85mm, removing London Stamp Exhibition, etc., from the lower part but the inscription EUROSTAMP – 1962 remains. Overprints letterpress in black were applied to cover all six stamps in the sheet:

(a) JOHN FITZGERALD KENNEDY 1917 1963 and large portrait

[12] On sheet 10, stamp background orange.

A Royale Stamp Co. price-list indicated sheet [14], grey-blue background, was also overprinted. Not seen. Rosen cites the unknown “1968 Exhibition” for this overprint.

(b) Lunar-module silhouette and FIRST MAN ON MOON / 21 JULY 1969

[13] On sheet 10, stamp background orange.

Rosen credits this to a “Space Stamps Exhibition, London” in 1969. No other mention of such an event traced. Royale had no offer of sheet 14 (grey-blue background) with the overprint. Possibly exhausted by 1969?

[1963-257]. 13 September 1963 London Stamp Fair, Hilton Hotel, W1

In 1963 Tom Todd staged another exhibition at the Hilton Hotel in Park Lane and with a theme of space stamps. The Post Office exhibited a model of Telstar and it accounts for cover [04] using the Jodrell Bank telescope as its illustration.

Souvenir sheet. The gummed sheet (95 x 89mm), printed typo by De La Rue, reproduces actual size and in the original colours the famous 1847 Post Office Mauritius (engraved) stamps, 1d. orange-red and 2d. deep blue.

The exhibition's newspaper Stamp Fair News stated: "The printing plate used for these sheets has been made direct from a proof taken from the original engraved printing plate used in Mauritius in 1847" [both stamps are on the one plate]. The legendary Maurice Burrus owned the plate and it was retained by his family after his death. Taken literally, the newspaper's assertion is of a newly made print from this plate.

But L.N. & M. Williams have recorded earlier reprinting in three colours: black, orange-red and deep blue. These appear to have been made on behalf of the dealer David Field some time between 1912 and 1927. Field was advertising the red and blue reprints for sale in 1939, so equally they might have been used by De La Rue to make the souvenir sheet.

Burrus's collections were sold during 1962-67. Five examples of the (actual) Post Office Mauritius stamps from the collections and due for auction 1 October 1963 by Robson Lowe were on display at the exhibition. Someone of Lowe's unique authority can easily be imagined as persuading Burrus's heirs to allow a new reprint from the precious Mauritius plate.

Uncatalogued souvenir sheets. Three further souvenir sheets honouring John F. Kennedy are said by Rosen to have been issued at the London Stamp Fair. This cannot be so, because the President was not assassinated until 22 November 1963, two months after the Fair had ended. My recollection was that the sheets were on sale at a Stampex, but as no confirmation of date or by whom could be traced they could not be assigned a place in the catalogue database. For reference the souvenirs are:

Sheet 1. Photo-litho, with gum, size 110 x 74mm. Four essays for GB commemoratives of President Kennedy: 3d., 6d., 1s.3d., 1s.6d. Stamps reproduced in black, including perfs, on a carmine surround. Inscription reverse white. No designers credited.

Sheets 2 & 3. Photo-litho, with gum. Essays for US 1964 Kennedy memorial issue. Five designs in black with simulated perfs against a gold background. Inscribed by litho in black. Sheet 2 (113 x 98mm) has designs based on line drawings; sheet 3 (136 x 79mm) on photographs.

[1963-328]. 23 November 1963 Polish PS Thematic Exhibition, Manchester

The Polish PS of Manchester exhibited the stamp centenaries collection of Stanley A.Garnett 23-24 November, accounting for the choice of two 1863 stamps (Turkey 20 para and Costa Rica ½ real) for the souvenir sheet. Unusually, the sheet was also printed on to a postal stationery postcard and the Souvenir Exhibition Programme.

Souvenir sheets. Listed as Morgan 63E-01 and 02, the sheet occurs printed in black on either white or chrome-yellow surfaced paper. Hudson's offer May97/Q170 of a "deep yellow paper" was taken to mean the chrome-yellow version.

The illustrated stamps are reproduced in reduced size and appear to have been taken from the Gibbons catalogue. The sheet has an ornamental outer frame in red, inner frame around stamps in grey, and sheet inscriptions in black letterpress.

Postcard. The postcard is postal stationery (Farleigh design), cream stock, impressed 2½d. scarlet. The souvenir sheet in red, grey and black is overprinted at the left of the address side. The red frame is inverted in relation to its appearance on the separate sheets. (Similarly, its use on the cover of the Programme shows it inverted.) The first-day machine cancel is Manchester X with the slogan "Fly Direct via Manchester Airport ...".

[1964-296]. 22 October 1964 Southern Stamp Fair, London

Held 22-24 October at the Ceylon Tea Centre, Lower Regent Street, London W1.

Souvenir sheet. The GB 1964 Botanical Congress set of 4 (SG 655-8) is reproduced from a halftone block actual size (including perfs) on a sheet 115 x 89mm with gum. Each stamp is defaced with a black line at bottom right; the sheet is inscribed litho in black. Issue quantity 1000. The printers of the stamps, Harrison, are credited, but the reproductions are not their original photogravure productions, only halftone facsimiles.

Specimen. Reminders of the 1962 London Stamp Exhibition sheet featuring the 1882 £5 orange were overprinted SPECIMEN in gold and, above, a new inscription Southern Stamp Fair Oct. 22-24 1964. Issue quantity 450. The overprints are by the old method of printing in letterpress and dusting with gold powder while the ink is wet. The powder tends to flake off with handling.

[1965-048]. 17 February 1965 SG Catalogue Centenary Exhibition, London SE1

Though Edward Stanley Gibbons was advertising price-lists in 1864, no actual copies have been recorded, so their form and content is presently unknown. The company have always dated the foundation of today's Gibbons Catalogue from the following year, since two copies of a printed Price-list and Catalogue have survived and these bear the date November 1865. To mark the centenary Stanley Gibbons Ltd. mounted this exhibition at the Royal Festival Hall in London, commemorated by issuing a souvenir card and cover, employing a special postmark and running a slogan campaign, the first which the G.P.O. had allowed a commercial company to sponsor. The recently appointed Postmaster-General, Anthony Wedgwood Benn, opened the exhibition.

Gibbons also honoured the centenary by launching a new catalogue at the exhibition. This was the Elizabethan, a specialised listing of stamps of Britain and the Commonwealth issued during the reign of Queen Elizabeth II. (Editions of the Elizabethan finally ceased to be published from December 1985 when the torrents of stamp new issues had led to a serious drop in popularity among collectors.) Postage stamps of Ajman on 6 May 1965 (SG 37-44) commemorated the exhibition and the designs included the November 1865 price-list and the new Elizabethan.

Harrison, printers of the souvenir card, perforated current GB postage stamps at the exhibition but – of course – did not distribute samples.

Note. Gibbons staged another exhibition the following year, though no souvenirs were issued and its importance can be overlooked. Having acquired premises at Drury House, Russell Street (near Drury Lane Theatre), an exhibition took place 6-7 September 1966 at its formal opening. Among the exhibits were the Gibbons/Kinneir essays unveiled at 1965 Stampex, together with many others with new ideas for British stamps, notably from David Gentleman. These had featured in a Post Office Seminar on 23 June 1966 with the P.M.G. Anthony Wedgwood Benn.

(The SG Catalogue Department was transferred from 391 Strand to Drury House when it opened: consequently, as Editor, I worked there from 1975 to 1981. J.N.)

[1966-197]. 15 July 1966 Great Britain PS Stamp Exhibition, London EC

Cover. Covers had been advertised serviced with the 1966 GB Birds set, but they were not available as issue of the set had been postponed.

Postmark. The exhibition at the Guildhall was open 15-23 July 1966, except for Friday 22nd, according to GSM Vol.39 (Jul 1966) p.193. It had a post office using the original Penny Postage Jubilee handstamp from the 1890 event at the Guildhall, adjusted for current dates.

[1966-308]. 3 November 1966 British Philatelic Exhibition (BPE), London W1

Souvenir cards (1)-(3). I was approached about remainders in January 1992 by the Secretary of the BPF and asked to suggest a fair price. The cards were due to be offered for sale at Spring Stampex 1992. I heard no more, so do not know if this happened.

[1967-098]. 7 April 1967 Stampex, London SW1

Souvenir sheet. Three framed Constable paintings are presented as “subjects for Great Britain pictorial stamps to be issued in June 1967”. They are: (1) Salisbury Cathedral; (2) The Cenotaph, and (3) The Hay Wain, all in the National Gallery. The first British Paintings set actually appeared in July 1967 and did not include Constable. His Hay Wain was, however, used in the second Paintings set issued 12 August 1968.

1970s

[1970-272]. 28 September 1970 39th FIP Congress, London W1

The Congress was held at the International Coffee Organisation, Berners Street, London W1. A report in LP Vol.79 (Dec 1970) p.273 gives its dates as 27-29 September, but the special postmarks are recorded only for 28th and 29th. The LP report has no mention of souvenirs.

[1971-061]. 1 March 1971 Stampex, London SW1

Stampex was held while the official Postal Strike (late January to early March) was in progress. The customary special postmark could not be produced nor was G.P.O. delivery of mail in operation. The change-over to decimal currency, and with it the issue of a whole new range of Machin definitive postage stamps, took place on 15 February during this seven-week dispute. (During this period, too, a field of great interest to some Cinderella collectors opened up, the licensing of many hundreds of private posts; fortunately they have been meticulously documented by Clive Smith.)

For many years at Stampex it was possible to buy a standard blank cover, on which stamps were then affixed and the item posted in the special box to receive the exhibition postmark. The cover was illustrated with the Mailcoach Trophy, awarded annually at the exhibition, and is believed initially also to have included the relevant year-date before this refinement was dispensed with.

In spite of the difficulties, two covers seen show that some kind of souvenir was considered worth attempting by someone – producing an interesting record in these later times. Both items used a Mailcoach Trophy cover dated for 1971.

Postmark (1). The cover bore new decimal Machins, postmarked 15 February with an official "First Day of Issue" special postmark. When the strike ended the G.P.O. delivered accumulated mail, adding a "strike" cachet in explanation of the delay. This was duly present.

Postmark (2). The cover was unaddressed but it received a Wood Green N22 cds dated 1 March 1971. In spite of the strike, many post offices in the UK remained open and transacted counter business, including the sale of the new Machin stamps. Presumably Wood Green was one such and would cancel-to-order if asked at this time.

[1971-308]. 3 November 1971 BPE, London W1

A £5 stamp with the head of King Edward VII was planned, resembling the £5 orange of Queen Victoria that was reproduced on the souvenir sheet of the 1962 London Stamp Exhibition. A die was proofed in March 1902 but the denomination was not issued. BPE now illustrated the KEVII design on its souvenir card, a printing said to be from the original die.

Souvenir card. Glazed card typo by De La Rue and with their imprint; size 92 x 60mm. The KEVII die reproduced imperf, actual size, in red-orange with white line defacement bottom right. Print quantity 5000 (of which Rosen says 3400 were sold). It was announced that any unsold remainders would be destroyed and there would be no reprinting.

[1972-209]. 27 July 1972 Philatex, Bournemouth

Trials. The exhibition's souvenir sheet reproduced in yellow-green and at same size the GB 1929 £1 black Postal Union Congress stamp, the famous design by Harold Nelson. Printing was from a halftone block and the stamp had a black border.

The sheet is also known printed in four colours other than the issued yellow-green and the Rosen catalogue lists it additionally in black. As KGV stamps had been demonetised on 1 March 1972, a few months before the exhibition, this use of the original colour would not have contravened regulations.

Often advertised as "colour proofs", a description "trials" seems more appropriate. Both stamp and surrounding border are in the same colour: since the halftone screen then appears in the stamp edges, these look faintly coloured instead of white. This suggests they may have been found unacceptable for that reason and the alternative was adopted. With this, the issued sheet achieved white edges to the stamp by printing around its coloured halftone a box in black with inner-facing perforations. In so doing, the box was printed inverted in comparison with the series of colour trials.

The known colours are:

- Carmine stamp and border.
- Orange stamp and border.
- Green stamp and border.
- Grey-blue stamp and border.
- (The printing in black was not seen.)

The green trial and the issued yellow-green are different shades, readily distinguished by noting the colour of the border.

[1972-306]. 1 November 1972 BPE, London W1

Souvenir card. The 1956 Malta 10s. St.Paul was reproduced on a glazed card by John Waddington using the "Kirketch process". This appears to be a typographic rendering of the recess-printed original stamp.

Cachet. A circular datestamp BRITISH PHILATELIC / EXHIBITION 1 NOV 1972 in red was seen as a control marking: it underprinted the stamp in addition to the serial number already struck in black on the reverse of the souvenir card. The same datestamp for 4 NOV 1972 is known in black, red, blue and green, all struck on the reverse of a single card. This was presumed to be a reference copy for this trade-sample marking.

[1972-351]. 16 December 1972 Royal Silver Wedding Stamp Exhibition, Ringwood

An imaginative design for the souvenir sheets gave enlarged reproductions of the 1972 GB 3p Silver Wedding stamp to illustrate errors. Sheet (1) shows “silver omitted” and sheet (2) has “transposed value”. In turn, sheet (1) is known with an error of its own!

Souvenir sheet (1) – error. In the error sheet the black-brown colour is omitted, so that the portraits of the Queen and Duke of Edinburgh are absent from the stamp.

Souvenir sheet (1) – trial. Advertised as a “proof”, this is probably more accurately a trial printing. The right-hand caption in the issued sheet is in Palace Script, an ornate sloping typeface often used on compliments slips and formal invitations. The trial has this caption set in the most widely used typeface for printing text – Times Roman, upright letters in the same face as the sheet heading.

Souvenir sheet (2). The error being illustrated on this sheet arises from a misperforated horizontal pair, causing the value to be transposed. Here, though, it appears to have been assembled from a normal pair rather than an actual example.

[1973-057]. 26 February 1973 Stampex, London SW1

Souvenir sheet. The sheet reproduced two Royal Silver Wedding stamps, the 1948 £1 George VI & Queen Elizabeth and the 1972 20p Queen Elizabeth & Duke of Edinburgh.

The sheet also celebrated the 20th anniversary of Stampex, the current year 1973. The rather confusing large date “1972” was meant to refer to the Silver Wedding of that year, not the exhibition.

[1973-096]. 5 April 1973 North-West Showpex, Manchester

Souvenir sheet. The sheet had Europa as theme and appears to have been remaindered, since three private overprints are known for untraced exhibitions, each additionally overprinted "Specimen". Whether there were such exhibitions needs establishing.

Private overprint (1). Reads "Europa Exhibition" in black and listed by Rosen as from "1973 Europa Stamp Exhibition". Was this part of the main Showpex?

Private overprint (2). Reads "EUROPA 1974" in scarlet and listed by Rosen for a "1974 Europa Exhibition". The sheet is catalogued twice at X43A and X60.

Private overprint (3). Reads "EUROPA 1975" in royal blue and listed by Rosen for a "1975 Europa Stamp Exhibition".

[1973-186]. 4 July 1973 APEX 73 International Airmail Exhibition, Manchester

As with the great APEX of 1934, this further major exhibition was inventive of souvenirs appropriate to the airmail speciality. There were flights taking in Jersey, Guernsey and the Isle of Man; a facsimile of the rare "Lifeboat Saturday" postcard, and balloon mail to carry it just as it had been originally. A novelty of 1934 was also repeated – mail by carrier pigeon.

Pigeongram. A card (180 x 83mm) containing at left a microfilm chip secured in a cut-out window. The reverse is litho printed in black with exhibition details and logo. Bears 1973 3p European Communities postage stamp cancelled 6 July 1973 with exhibition special postmark and addressed to Head Post Office, Manchester.

Printed information that pigeons were "released from Kodak House, Hemel Hempstead, Hertfordshire" [where the microfilm was prepared?]. Faint rubber stamp in red at top left of face reads "Pigeons released on 18 June 1973 at 16.08 hrs. Direct flight to Windsor Berks." Hence the microfilm mail was carried in advance of the exhibition ready for postmarking and sale there.

[1973-248]. 4 September 1973 Showpex 73, London W1

Private overprint. The souvenir sheet reproduced typo the GB 1966 2s.6d. Westminster Abbey postage stamp in its original black colour but enlarged in size. The overprint reads "In honour of / ROYAL WEDDING / of / PRINCESS ANNE / 14th November, 1973". Unusually, overprinting is in white ink; it is in consequence indistinct and best viewed with the sheet at an angle to the eye. (Another instance of white ink can be found on the 1925 postage dues of Albania.) Its choice here may have been dictated by the original sheet colours of black on gold-surfaced paper.

The exact date of the wedding would have been known at exhibition time in September, but until an overprinted sheet was seen on cover postmarked there, the overprint was regarded as private and posthumous to the exhibition.

[1973-305A]. 31 October 1973 BPE, London W1

For the souvenir sheet, Bradbury Wilkinson's reproduction commemorated the 60th anniversary of Sir Bertram Mackennal's Seahorses design for the KGV high values, which had been engraved by J.A.C.Harrison. (It has been featured also on the £1.46 postage stamp booklet of March 1983, notable for misspelling Mackennal's name.)

The reproduction appears to be a version taken at about Stage 6 during preparation of the master die, when Britannia's shield was cleared for re-engraving the Union Jack emblem. Stage 6 in the SG Great Britain Specialised Catalogue is captioned as having no circles at the top though they are present in its illustration; except for one circle at the extreme left, they are present on this die proof. The BPE's information sheet states "this souvenir was printed from a plate laid down from a roller made in approximately 1912 by the Royal Mint and now in the possession of the Post Office".

Souvenir sheet. Uncut sheets of four of the souvenir, in both ordinary (greenish blue) and presentation (crimson) versions, had been seen; they were "four up", i.e. souvenir sheets disposed 2 x 2 on the printer's sheet. Presumably supplied for pre-production approval, they were present in the reference collection of the BPE. The albums for this had been mounted and written up by the late Leon Rapkin, through whose kindness I was able to examine them in the late 1980s.

[1973-335]. 30 November 1973 Second Olympia Exhibition, London

The souvenir card is headed "Second Olympia Exhibition" with dates 30 November – 1 December 1973. No souvenirs of the First, nor any other "Olympia Exhibition", were traced, so it is not known what connection this had with philately, if any.

[1974-124]. 3 May 1974 Festival of Stamps, London SE1

The first of its kind, on 3-6 May 1974 the Stamp Collecting Promotion Council organised a "Festival of Stamps" at London's Royal Festival Hall, deliberately aimed to attract the non-collector. The Council underwent several reorganisations with changes of name and personnel in subsequent years and its ultimate fate is not known.

PVS sheet. Much emphasis was placed on the postal validity of the souvenir sheet. The presentation pack stated: "The unique Souvenir Sheet ... is the first British Commemorative Exhibition Sheet to be recognised by the British Post Office, as having postal validity". The words "Exhibition Sheet" makes this technically correct, an earlier contender's sheet making a political protest rather than celebrating an exhibition. This was Express Stamp

Auctions of Wembley objecting to the new VAT tax the year before [database 1973-091]. The present sheet reproduced the Penny Black actual size, suitably defaced with a tablet at foot of the bust dated "6th MAY 1974". It was lettered SL, said by John Davies (Philatelic Paraphernalia No.15 p.185) to stand for Sidney Leverton, the Festival's organiser.

The stamping-to-order at right of the gummed sheet was with ½p turquoise-blue and 3p blue octagonal Machin postal stationery dies. (The illustration to Davies's article has no ½p, perhaps a simple fault in the magazine printing.)

Specimen. In addition to a litho overprint SPECIMEN across the Machin stamps, the PVS sheet was numbered on reverse at bottom right by numbering machine. The caption "This Souvenir Sheet has postal validity" has not been obliterated and this statement cannot be so.

[1974-134]. 13 May 1974 Forest Philharmonic Society

Souvenir card. The card reproduced the GB 1972 9p Vaughan Williams postage stamp and a hand-drawn cds ROYAL FESTIVAL HALL / LONDON, listed by Rosen as X47. His preceding entry X46 is for the Festival of Stamps PVS sheet overprinted "F.P.S. / 10th Anniversary / Royal Festival Hall May 1974" [private overprint 1974-124-04] with attendant Specimen and 100 numbered first day covers.

No explanation is given of the meaning of "F.P.S."; nothing was found elsewhere of an event that seemed connected with it. The initials mean Forest Philharmonic Society (one of Gerald Rosen's interests was classical music). I assumed for the database the Society possibly had an anniversary exhibit at the Festival of Stamps. This speculation would now benefit from proper research, though the Festival's "catalogue" has no list of exhibits itself.

[1974-335B]. 30 November 1974 Churchill Centenary Exhibition, Camberley

One of the souvenir cards surfaced with a private overprint, whether at the exhibition or shortly after is not known.

Private overprint. Souvenir card [01] printed typo with blue surround, no gum, size 106 x 139mm is overprinted in gold "10th ANNIVERSARY OF DEATH – January 24th 1975".

[1975-056]. 25 February 1975 Stampex, London SW1

The souvenir sheet was a litho reproduction of Waterlow's recess-printed miniature sheet produced for the UN in 1955; this had been the first from the international organisation, nowadays a very expensive item. The souvenir sheet had an imperf coupon at the left-hand side.

Private label. For this item a self-adhesive "Interphil '76" label was affixed over the coupon. The label (95 x 45mm), printed litho in vermilion and black, is numbered at foot in black letterpress. It was probably originally a publicity label, with the numbering added for the Stampex sheet. Rushstamps advertised it among "latest releases" in the Rosen green-cover Catalogue published about June 1976: Interphil, the Seventh US International Philatelic Exhibition, was held at the Philadelphia Civic Center 29 May – 6 June 1976.

Whether the souvenir was originally created for the US exhibition and was on sale there is not clear. If so, strictly speaking it is outside the scope of the database catalogue. The fact that a year-old Stampex sheet with a UN theme was utilised is suggestive of appealing primarily to American collectors with their known strong interest in UN material.

The original miniature sheet bore the inscription "Issued by the United Nations Postal Administration". For the souvenir sheet there is wisely inserted beside the coupon "Reproduced by Stampex Limited". Its edition had been 12,500: the fact that remainders were available for the Interphil item seems to confirm the decline in popularity that had overtaken exhibition souvenirs by the 1970s.

[1976-089]. 29 March 1976 Forest Philharmonic Society, London

Souvenir card. (And see 1974-134 above.) Rosen's X79, the card gave enlarged imperf reproductions in black of the GB 1957 Scout Jubilee Jamboree set. The inscription reads "Royal Festival Hall / March 29 1976". It hardly seems likely this was another anniversary – a 12th would be unusual. Was it a memento of a concert – the Festival Hall would be appropriate – or was there a stamp exhibition at the venue? The absence of any information on the souvenir card or elsewhere makes it another item needing research.

A plain f.d.c. was seen cancelled with an operational London SE1 c.d.s. It had numbering-machine numerals on the reverse and Rosen says they read from 1 to 225. The printed address read Forest Philharmonic Society, Royal Festival Hall, London, S.E.1. Franking was by a pair of the 1975 4½p + 1½p Health & Handicap Funds stamps plus a pair of ½p Machin definitives. The choice of Britain's only charity issue for postage suggests the event may have been a fund-raising concert after all.

[1976-143A]. 22 May 1976 Camberley Stamp Fair

Private overprint. The souvenir card featured a portrait of George Washington and advantage was taken of the US connection to apply a private overprint. Whether this was available at the Fair or was made posthumously is not known. The overprint, letterpress in gold ink across the foot of the portrait, reads INTERPHIL '76. The remarks made above [1975-056] about the private label affixed to a Stampex souvenir sheet apply here too.

[1977-156]. 4 June 1977 Windsor Silver Jubilee Stamp Exhibition

Private overprints. The souvenir sheet has a portrait of the Queen and, at bottom right, appears the official Jubilee emblem printed in silver. Permission was needed to use the emblem and it was in two versions, incorporating either the English or the Scottish crown. For her Silver Jubilee the Queen undertook extensive tours in England, Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland from May to August and the souvenir sheet was privately overprinted accordingly.

None of the overprinted sheets had been seen, but they had been advertised by the Camberley Stamp Co. on the back cover of the Rosen catalogue (red-cover edition, 1979). The overprint reads "Royal Tour of England" (and similarly for the other three regions) on sheets with an English-crown emblem, total four kinds; but another four are listed where the crown is Scottish, grand total eight. All overprinting is in silver and Camberley's ambiguous reference "800 numbered sets" is taken to mean 100 copies of each of the eight overprinted sheets.

The advertisement also offers "proofs in yellow" of the basic souvenir sheet in both versions. This probably simply means an extra printing on yellow paper, especially as the inevitable SPECIMEN overprint is also listed for both sorts of "yellow proof" in an edition of 100 each type.

All this unseen private material was ignored for the database catalogue, nor was it considered worth purchasing. Rosen's listing does not go beyond early 1976, so the material is absent there.

[1977-250]. 6 September 1977 Showpex 77, London W1

The souvenir sheet illustrates the GB 1887 Queen Victoria Jubilee set in full (but with the changes of colour for ½d. and 1s. of 1900). Remainders were given a thematic overprint.

Private overprint. In black letterpress above and below the stamps, the overprint reads "Charles & Diana / Royal Wedding / 1981". The lack of a precise date in 1981 suggests it was applied when the engagement was announced and before the July wedding day was fixed.

[1978-154]. 2 June 1978 Windsor Stamp Exhibition

Said to have been held 2-3 June, nothing was traced of the venue or the organisers. The souvenir sheet is a photograph of the Queen's Coronation, printing credited to Bradbury Wilkinson in a Camberley Stamp Centre advertisement in Rosen's red-cover catalogue (1979). The sheet would presumably commemorate the 25th anniversary of the Coronation.

Private overprints. Letterpress overprints were added in gold ink at the foot of the sheet:
[03] ROYAL VISIT TO JERSEY 27th JUNE

- [04] ROYAL VISIT TO GUERNSEY 28th JUNE
[05] ROYAL VISIT TO / ALDERNEY and SARK 29th JUNE.

Contemporary news reports need checking to establish if these refer to 1978 or were another segment of the 1977 series undertaken by the Queen for her Silver Jubilee (see 1977-156, above).

[1979-043]. 12 February 1979 10th Anniversary NPM Opening, London EC1

Cover. The illustrated cover issued to commemorate the anniversary of the National Postal Museum was stamped-to-order with the 9p violet octagonal postal stationery die, printed photogravure and with phosphor bands. It was withdrawn from sale 2 October 1981 at the closure of the current exhibition "Ten Years of Decimal Machins" (6 May – 2 Oct 1981). Whether there had also been an exhibition at the time of issuing the cover in February 1979 was not noted.

1980s

[1980-127C] 6 May 1980 London 1980 International Stamp Exhibition

Sample (1). The House of Questa produced as a sample of their work a souvenir sheet showing Big Ben, Concorde and the British Telecom Tower; a Heidelberg printing machine was in operation at their stand. The sheet illustrated in the exhibition catalogue (p.73) is imperforate, has a pale blue (not pale grey) surround, and bears an additional caption "International Stamp Exhibition 6-14 May 1980" above the labels. The same in black and white appears in the Post Office Philatelic Bulletin for May 1980. It was probably a preliminary design distributed for press publicity.

Sample (2). Harrison & Sons had as sample a souvenir sheet combining three printing processes. The label printed photogravure showed the Machin head of the Queen; set-tenant was a recess-printed label of Queen Victoria as depicted on the Penny Black, newly engraved by Geoffrey Holt. At the Company stand a single-colour Roland offset-litho press applied an exhibition logo below the labels, the third process. The photo and recess portions had already been printed at the High Wycombe factory (probably by the Jumelle press).

Sample (4). Walsall Security Printers' sample souvenir sheet was a facsimile of the 1843 Zürich 4 rappen Cantonal stamp, the first lithographed stamp to be issued. The printer recreated it "on a 19th century litho stone press using the original craft techniques" shown at the exhibition. The catalogue (p.75) illustrates the "finished engraving from which the final transfer [was] taken".

[1980-275B]. 1 October 1980 BPE, Wembley

Souvenir sheet. A trade sample had the BRITISH PHILATELIC EXHIBITION cds dated 18 AUG 1980 on the reverse.

[1980-275C]. 1 October 1980 Cinderella Stamp Club 21st Anniversary

Publicity label. The Club's journal, The Cinderella Philatelist, revived a practice from 19th century philatelic literature by including a free gift with each quarterly number. This has continued without break from No.1, published in 1961, through the generosity of members in donating suitable Cinderella items each time.

The gift with the October 1980 issue marked the Club's 21st anniversary; additional labels could be had at 5p each. It showed the Club logo cancelled with a Dockwra handstamp. The production details published with the label (Vol.20 p.62) were: printed in scarlet in sheets of 16 (4 x 4) on self-adhesive paper and rouletted. Designed by John Gilbert and John Holman. Printed by S & M Printing Services, Dartford, Kent in quantity 2000 labels.

[1981-273]. 29 September 1981 BPE, Wembley

Souvenir sheet (1). Marking the 70th anniversary of the KGV Downey Head design, the sheet reproduced the unadopted 3d. and 4d.values actual size. Printing was said to be from the original dies presented to the National Postal Museum by the Royal Mint in 1980.

The Downey Head of the King for his definitive stamps was based on a photograph by W. and D.Downey, hence the name. (The information sheet with the souvenir misspells the designer's name as "Mackennel" instead of Mackennal.) During the exhibition on 30 September a £1.30 postage stamp booklet in the Postal History series was issued featuring the Downey Head; special postmark (2) for that day recorded the fact.

The souvenir sheet was presented to paid-up members of the NPS by Mrs Eliane Hollings in some copies of the December 1994 Stamp Lover. Also, both the souvenir and information sheets were included with Glenn Morgan's British Stamp Exhibitions catalogue when published in 1995 "with compliments of the British Philatelic Trust". These gifts must suggest there were several hundred sheets existing as remainders from the exhibition.

Souvenir sheet (3). Walsall Security Printers' souvenir sheet showed the vignette, without territory designation, as used for the 1981 Royal Wedding omnibus issue, the latter organised by the Crown Agents. The sheet inscription reads "Sept.29 – Oct.2" and there are special postmarks for each of these days. The exhibition catalogue, however, includes in the hours of opening 5-8 pm on Monday, 28 September.

[1982-280]. 6 October 1982 BPE, Wembley

Souvenir sheet (1). The reproduced stamp was the GB 1882 £5 orange. As with the 1981 BPE sheet (see preceding entry), some copies of the December 1994 Stamp Lover contained the present sheet (plus the information sheet), a gift to NPS members from Mrs Eliane Hollings. Numbers of remainders must therefore have existed at that date.

Postcard (2). Specialist dealer in Post Office cards, Ian Andrew of Reading, publicised the exhibition and his stand No.36 with a privately produced postcard. This illustrated the Wembley Conference Centre in black and white with stand details on the reverse.

[1986-288]. 14 October 1986 BPE, London SW1

Postcard. No souvenir sheet had been issued by the organisers. Instead, the National Postal Museum issued on opening day a postcard depicting the painting of Queen Victoria by Heinrich von Angeli (1885), which was familiar from its original use on postal stationery postcards in 1889. The Museum was concurrently staging an exhibition of postal stationery and it ran from 11 August to 23 December 1986.

[1987-063]. 3 March 1987 Spring Stampex, London SW1

Cachet. No souvenir sheet was issued by the organisers. On the National Postal Museum's stand was a hand-operated Krag stamp-cancelling machine fitted with a triangular die numbered 318. This and a franking machine with the Museum's own cachet could be operated by the public, but not to cancel postage stamps or other indications of postage.

[1987-266]. 22 September 1987 Autumn Stampex/BPE, London SW1

Souvenir card. No souvenir sheet was issued by the organisers, but this exhibition saw the first use in Britain of the Post Office's own souvenir – Exhibition Card No.1.

In explanation, the relevant Post Office News Release MNE(R) 93 dated 12 June 1987 is quoted in full:

FLOWERS BLOOM ON ROYAL MAIL EXHIBITION CARD

The Royal Mail is introducing a special philatelic souvenir exhibition card for visitors to international stamp shows, starting this month.

Collectors who buy the card at stamp exhibitions can have their card cancelled with a special cachet, exclusive to that exhibition, giving the name and dates of the show. Cards bought at exhibitions will also be numbered on the reverse.

The card will be issued from tomorrow (June 13) to coincide with the opening of the Capex '87 philatelic exhibition in Canada. The card's design, in full colour, is based on the Flower stamps issued in January this year. Each card will carry the 31p and 34p Flower stamps, cancelled with "Royal Mail Exhibition Card No.1, Edinburgh, 13 June 1987".

The cards will be on sale from the British Philatelic Bureau and Post Office stands at designated stamp exhibitions at home and overseas, for one year, price £1. Each card will have room for only one cachet and cachets will be available at exhibitions only. [Followed by list of 5 exhibitions June 1987 – March 1988 where available.]

Note to Editors. The card will be A5 size and printed in a combination of two colour litho and two colour intaglio on the front of the card and two colour litho on the back. There will be a multilingual text on the reverse of the card describing the Flower issue with the address of the British Philatelic Bureau. On the front the bottom left hand corner will be left free for the application of the cachet. Cards bearing a special exhibition cachet will be available only at the exhibition concerned. Cancelled cards without a cachet or a number will be available from the British Philatelic Bureau.

The series issued over the years comprised four different designs before the enterprise was abandoned by Royal Mail. They had duly appeared in Britain at each Spring and Autumn Stampex but no more were forthcoming after Spring Stampex in February 1991 [database 1991-057]. No special announcement about this development was encountered, but that was by no means unusual for the Post Office. Presumably collectors, already saturated with an abundance of Royal Mail products, virtually ignored exhibition souvenirs and they proved uneconomic to produce and market.

The only detail to be added to the News Release above is that the elaborate combination of litho and recess printing was the work of Debdens Security Print, Essex, an unfamiliar name.

[1988-061A]. 1 March 1988 Spring Stampex, London SW1

Cachet (1). The cachet available at the NPM stand was a Krag triangular die 579 (North Walsham, Norfolk) between five wavy lines and a circular dumb cancel. It was applied in black to NPM postcard 88/1, Loading Mail on the Post Office Railway c.1938.

1990s

[1995-118]. 27 April 1995 Stamp 95 Exhibition, Wembley

Souvenir sheet. The souvenir sheet was distributed with the Exhibition Guide, also the SG Great Britain Concise Stamp Catalogue, 10th edition of April 1995.

British Stamp Exhibitions

3: Souvenir Mail

James Negus worked tirelessly to record philatelic matters of interest to him and to share it with the wider philatelic community. He was a most methodical person and the work before you now is the result of his diligent research.

The original data was stored on an electronic database that he had compiled and when Jim decided to fully withdraw from the hobby of philately towards the end of his life, he supplied Glenn Morgan with a disk containing his research.

It will be noted that he included material from the Philatelic Congress of Great Britain (PCGB) and that a conscious decision had been made by your authors not to document these annual events in volume one. The PCGB data contained here will therefore be a most useful source of information for those who collect the many souvenirs.

Extensive listings of postcards, postal stationery, special handstamps and souvenir covers from all manner of postal and philatelic events held in Great Britain down the years will be of equal value to collectors.

Jim generously waived his copyright on this souvenir mail research, enabling it to be included here.
